IF IT'S ABOUT FOREIGN TRADE — SEE THE B of M

"I'll sell the world!"

This chap, like so many Canadians these days is getting "export fever". He's beginning to realize that the market for his product extends around the world, and so, as he puts it, he's going to sell the world.

No question . . . world markets are full of opportunity, but they have their headaches, too. Here's where you'll find the Bank of Montreal a real ally . . . ready and able to help you sort out export problems.

"MY BANK" TO A MILLION CANADIANS B of M

Our Foreign Department knows the export picture and can provide extensive information and banking service . . . as, for instance, data on foreign markets; credit information on a world-wide basis; daily reports on exchange rates; the opening of credit facilities throughout the world, and the buying and selling of foreign exchange.

If you are going to export, you can save time, money and detail work by first talking over your plans with your nearest B of M manager.

If it's about foreign trade — see the B of M.

Introduction

THE primary object of the publishers of the CANADIAN TRADE INDEX is to provide buyers and sellers of Canada and ninety other countries with an authoritative directory of all products manufactured in Canada and the names of the firms making them. It includes a complete list of Canadian manufacturers having more than a local distribution for their products, irrespective of membership in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Approximately ten thousand firms are listed.

This edition of the Index includes the following features: an alphabetical directory of approximately ten thousand Canadian manufacturers with addresses, branches, export representatives, trade marks and brands; a directory of Canadian manufacturers classified according to the products made; a directory of exporters of agricultural produce and allied lines; an export section giving details of Government services and other export information, with a Foreword by The Rt. Honourable C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa; an alphabetical list in French of the headings in the classified section with parallel English; an alphabetical list in Spanish (limited edition) of headings in the classified section with parallel English; an alphabetical list in Portuguese (limited edition) of headings in the classified section with parallel English.

Owing to the detailed classification and the numerous advertisements, prospective purchasers are generally in a position to get in direct contact with manufacturers of the goods desired, but where information regarding specialized lines is required the gratuitous service of the Commercial Intelligence Department of the Association is offered. It is suggested that importers abroad should first communicate with Canadian Government Trade Commissioners in their respective territories. Their names are listed on pages 233 to 235 of the Export Section. Representatives of overseas firms visiting Canada are invited to call at the Head Office of the Association where they will be given every possible assistance.

The Index is kept up to date by an annual revision, and the past year has been spent in checking and revising names, addresses, and classifications. Each manufacturer is sent a revising form on which any changes in firm name or products are reported. Additional information is received from Government departments, mercantile reports, and our ten offices across Canada. Classifications are generally established by consultation with manufacturers and experts in various industries.

The publishers wish to thank all organizations, government departments, and the manufacturers who have so kindly aided by furnishing the information on which the book is based.

The Editor.

FLEXIBLE HOSE ASSEMBLIES AND FITTINGS

that can "Take It"

MODERN automotive and aviation requirements make tough service demands on flexible hose lines and fittings. Dependable performance and the safe operation of most vehicles depend on the long life of flexible hose . . . and its ability to "take-it" under constant temperature changes and often exposure to the elements.

Weatherhead hose lines and fittings are standard equipment on the majority of planes, automobiles, buses and trucks because of their proven ability to stay on the job.

When specifying fuel lines, hose assemblies, high pressure hose, or fittings specify Weatherhead . . . it costs no more to get the best.

If you are engaged in the aircraft, automotive, refrigeration, appliance or transportation fields, write today for the Weatherhead catalogs describing products engineered for your industry.

Beatty MONORAIL

One of the many uses of the Twin Hook Hoist.

WHEN OVERHEAD MEANS PROFIT

Bulky materials, fragile materials, hot materials can be moved along an overhead Monorail system with SAFETY and ECONOMY. It puts to good use the unused space overhead and saves the floors and floor-space. Easy to install—maintenance is negligible.

Send for our Catalogue and inquire about the engineering service which we will put at your disposal, to find how you can economize by the use of Monorial in your plant. We have helped thousands of others. . . perhaps we can serve you also.

A girl can easily handle loads on Monorail which no man could move with a hand truck or wheel barrow. It spares your employees from the overstrain of lifting heavy materials by main strength, and from the physical disabilities which result. Soon saves handling costs enough to make the system pay for itself. Can be adapted to almost any handling situation, it is easy to install, easy to add to.

Full Production Demands A1 Maintenance

CLEAN and moisture-free oil has a direct bearing on peak production. That is why De Laval Oil Purifiers are so important to Canadian Industry. Huge plants, going at full tilt, can't afford to take chances on production hold-ups due to mechanical failure caused by dirty, moisture-laden lubricating or hydraulic oil.

De Laval Oil Purifiers remove water and dirt continuously from oil by means of centrifugal force. The design of the De Laval bowl makes it impossible for either the water or dirt to recontaminate the oil that has been purified.

It will pay you to investigate how De Laval Oil Purifiers can provide maximum protection for your machines against both trouble-makers —water and dirt. Write for your copy of Bulletin TO-1 for further information on De Laval Oil Purifiers.

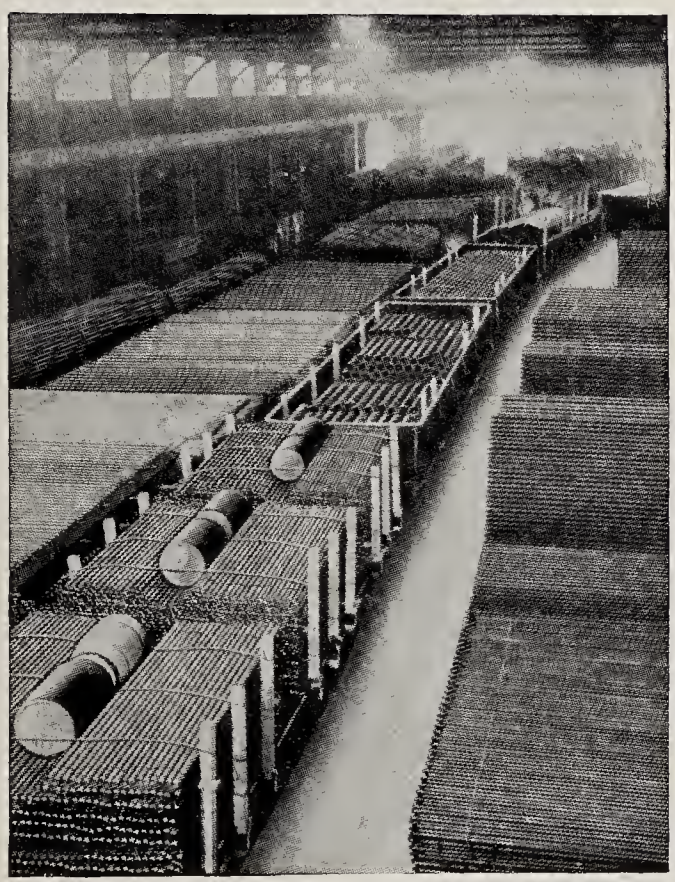
The modern building shown above houses the Canadian head office and industrial manufacturing staff.

With plant No. 2, where commercial production takes place, now operating at full swing, Taylor has the most scientifically equipped instrument establishments in the Dominion.

Or, to be more specific, leave it to the automatic pilot. All of which merely illustrates a point we wish to get across.



When you use Taylor methods of instrumentation to control the variable factors in production, gremlins are blitzed, and the hazard of "human error" is reduced to a minimum. Taylor automatic control systems assure effective control of temperature, timed operations, pressure, humidity, flow and liquid level. Follow the lead of modern Canadian manufacturers, and prove to yourself the value of Taylor automatic control systems. Consult the Taylor field engineer in your district.

You'll find the advice of the Irvington engineering staff invaluable in selecting the right type varnish for your job. For better protection, faster application, complete drying, always specify Irvington and Harvel insulating varnishes.

High tensile strength, a "just right" degree of elasticity, plus flexibility and elongation make Irvington Varnished Cambrics and Tapes adaptable to any irregular contours. None better for tight, compact jobs.

Irvington Flexible Extruded Tubings—ideal for electrical and chemical applications. Extreme resistance to heat, abrasion and solvents give Irvington Extruded Tubings a wide range of industrial and electrical uses.

One of these Torrington Bearings may solve a design problem for you...

Type DC Needle Bearing is suitable for applications where size, weight and cost must be held to a minimum.

Type AT Needle Bearing is designed for aircraft applications to be used in conjunction with standard AN bolts.

Type PN (Double Row) Needle Bearing meets all aircraft pulley requirements for primaty control applications.

Type RC Needle Bearing is designed for cam follower service and rolling loads, where outer race is not supported by housing.

Self-Aligning Spherical Roller Bearing is designed for heavy-duty applications to meet conditions of misalignment.

Double Row Tapered Roller Bearing carries heavy radial and thrust loads where maximum stability is required.

Single Row Straight Roller Bearing is adaptable for high radial loads where simplicity of design, assembly and maintenance are important.

Type NCS Needle Bearing is particularly suitable for severe load applications and the most exacting service conditions.

It may not have occurred to you that there are so many different types of Torrington Bearings—or that the completeness of the line of these modern, anti-friction bearings makes them adaptable to many design requirements.

Pictured above are eight different types—and there are others, all different in design, to assure you a wide choice to meet any specific requirement. Each is engineered for a particular task—or combination of design requirements. Individually each offers the same characteristic advantages of unit design, anti-friction operation, high capacity, efficient lubrication, simple installation and maintenance.

The result is that in almost any application where Torrington Bearings are employed the design problem is simplified; operating efficiency and service life are increased; manufacturing costs are reduced; and sales features are added.

Investigate for yourself how the advantages of Torrington's complete line of anti-friction bearings can be of assistance in your product planning. Full information is available on request, and our engineering staff is ready to help you with any design requirement.

STRAIGHTENED and CUT WIRE comes from

OJIBWAY

Bright and galvanized wire in coils or straightened and cut lengths—annealed bundling and core wire—cable wire —spring wire—telephone wire—box binding wire—chain wire—bolt wire—and bale ties.

ELECTRIC WELD and TRIANGLE MESH

REINFORCING FABRIC

The economical, efficient backbone for concrete. Care in fabrication prevents loose ends, saving time and material. Conforms readily to all structural shapes. Inside storage keeps it clean and fresh until it reaches the job. ELECTRIC WELD in rolls or sheets, widths to 120"—TRIANGLE MESH in rolls only—widths to 56".

Why OJIBWAY FENCE lasts longer

It's no secret—it's just that experience has proven that a proper coating of zinc is imperative. So that's what we do at OJIBWAY—galvanizing heavy enough to wrap the wire around its own diameter without cracking, as shown at the right. We could save money in manufacture by using less zinc, but that would not give customers their money's worth.

This most up-to-date automatic folding machine is a boon to manufacturers of fine shirts, work shirts and sports clothing and it's so simplified it can be operated efficiently by inexperienced help —very easy to set up dies for operation.

POSITIVE UNIFORM WORK

Every article is folded exactly to the size and shape desired. There is no variation, for the quality of work does not depend upon the operator's skill-of-the-moment. When the article leaves the machine, it is not merely creased—it is folded flat and firmly.

This speeds subsequent stitching operations, because every piece from this machine comes to the next operation perfectly and uniformly formed—reducing costs, time and irritation.

POLYSAR RUBBERS

Polymer produces a wide variety of types of man-made rubber, and its research men are constantly seeking new and still better types. The company is equipped to fill large special orders for most types of GR-S, Butyl or Buna-N.

STANDARD TYPES

POLYSAR-S: 10 solid and 3 latex types of GR-S, including a new latex for use as an ingredient of foam rubber.

BUTYL: 3 types, including an improved Polymer type for inner tubes, and a type for the manufacture of high tension wire and cable covering.

POLYSAR-N: Recently added to the Polymer output, Buna-N types have quickly won a wide market. Polysar-N types have outstanding qualities for the manufacture of oil-resistant hose, tank linings, gaskets, and other items, and for combining with poly vinyl chloride in the manufacture of sheeting for upholstery, handbags, shoes, and food packaging.

PETROLEUM HYDROCARBONS

From petroleum gases, Polymer Corporation produces man-made rubber. Hence Polymer is in a position to supply petroleum hydrocarbons in tank car lots or by pipeline to nearby plants. The chemicals Polymer can make available include:

STYRENE • BUTADIENE • ISOBUTYLENE • ETHYLENE
TERTIARY BUTYL ALCOHOL • TOLUOL • BUTANE

UTILITIES

Polymer is able to supply steam and water to new industries locating in its area, which is convenient for lake, rail and highway shipment. In co-operation with the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Polymer will also supply electric power.

The Polymer Technical Service and Research Departments are prepared to discuss individual requirements and technical problems with manufacturers anywhere in the world.

NICKEL FOR ALLOYING IRON, STEEL, BRASS AND BRONZE

NICKEL—In shot and pig forms, and Electrolytic Nickel squares, for producing nickel cast iron, nickel steels, nickel brasses and bronzes.

COPPER-NICKEL SHOT—For nickel additions to brass and bronze. Contains 50% Copper and 50% Nickel.

WROUGHT MONEL, NICKEL AND INCONEL

MONEL—A nickel-copper alloy having high strength and hardness, and good resistance to corrosion. Used extensively in the chemical, marine, power equipment, laundry, food service, pickling, petroleum and pulp and paper industries.

"K" MONEL—A non-magnetic, age-hardening alloy with high strength and hardness. Its resistance to corrosion is similar to that of Monel.

"R" MONEL—A free-machining alloy particularly adapted for use in automatic screw machines.

"KR" MONEL—A free-machining grade of "K" Monel which can be heat treated to develop similar high mechanical properties.

"A" NICKEL—Commercially pure malleable nickel for turbine blading, radio tube parts, gaskets, high temperature applications and corrosion-resisting service.

"D" NICKEL—Contains approximately 4.5% manganese, but otherwise has the composition of nickel. The manganese provides improved resistance to attack by sulphur compounds at elevated temperatures under both oxidizing and reducing conditions. Used for spark plug electrodes, gas engine ignition tubes, thermometer wells, and other high temperature applications not requiring a material with mechanical properties quite so high as those of Inconel.

"Z" NICKEL—An age-hardening high-nickel alloy in which great strength and hardness are accompanied by the high resistance to corrosion that is characteristic of nickel. Can be heat-treated after forming to develop 2½ to 4 times the strength of structural steel. An excellent spring material.

INCONEL — A nickel-chromium-iron alloy having exceptional strength and resistance to oxidation at high temperatures. It was developed primarily for freedom from tarnishing and other effects of corrosion in the food industries but has since found wide application in the furnace and heat treat field.

CASTINGS — MONEL

MONEL — Monel castings have the same order of resistance to corrosion as wrought Monel and are used for pump impellers, filter plates, valve bodies, pumps, bushings and fittings.

"S" MONEL—A small silicon addition confers age-hardening characteristics. The hardness of the alloy is of the order of 320 Brinell as cast and may be increased to 350 by suitable thermal treatment. "S" Monel has excellent gall and erosion resistance, thus making it particularly suitable for valve seats, and sliding or other moving parts. It retains high hardness at red heat.

TECHNICAL SERVICE

A large staff of engineers and specialists on technical subjects is maintained throughout Canada, United States and Great Britain. The cumulative experience of these men is available. In the consideration of new products, or better equipment to produce your product, the use of nickel or one of the many nickel alloys might prove highly advantageous. Your confidence in inviting us to discuss any matters in which we can be of assistance will be appreciated. Our representatives are more or less constantly in your district and can frequently arrange to discuss technical matters personally.

SPECIAL EXPORT SECTION

by THE RIGHT HONOURABLE C. D. HOWE

Minister of Trade and Commerce

AS A RESULT of restrictions and controls which have developed in every country during the last few years, many businessmen have welcomed any positive assistance in their dealings in Canada and abroad. The Foreign Trade Service, whose functions and personnel at home and abroad are outlined in the following pages, has for many years endeavoured to provide such practical assistance to our own businessmen and to those of other countries who wish to do business with Canada.

The Canadian Trade Index is another of the practical instruments at the service of Canadian businessmen, and is a reliable guide to those who seek to buy or sell in our country. I, therefore, congratulate the Canadian Manufacturers' Association upon the publication of this new issue. I know that it, like its predecessors, will render invaluable service to all who consult its pages.

FOREIGN TRADE SERVICE

TRADE COMMISSIONER SERVICE

The Trade Commissioner Service consists of headquarters at Ottawa and offices administered by Trade Commissioners in various British and foreign countries. The Director has charge of the work of the Service at home and abroad, assisted by an Assistant Director.

The headquarters staff also includes a group of officials in charge of four world area sections, namely the British Empire, Europe, Latin America and Asia. These officials are responsible for co-ordinating the work of the Trade Commissioner Service pertaining to their respective areas. In addition to this, these officials are responsible for general information and inquiries regarding trade in their respective areas.

An Area Traffic Officer was recently appointed to act as Liaison Officer with other government departments on transportation problems, internal and external, as they affect Canada's export and import trade. He also represents the Department of Trade and Commerce on the Interdepartmental Committees on Telecommunications.

At present there are forty-two offices abroad, sixteen in British and twenty-five in foreign countries. In addition to the Trade Commissioner, each office normally has one or more Assistant Trade Commissioners. At some posts these trade officers are attached to diplomatic missions and have the title and rank of Commercial Counsellor, Commercial Secretary, Consul or Vice-Consul as the case may be.

Trade Commissioners promote both the export and import trade of Canada, and their services are at the disposal of firms and individuals interested in Canada's trade expansion.

The duties of the Trade Commissioner are to introduce Canadian exporters and importers to the corresponding businessmen of other countries; to study conditions and needs of the territories where they are located; to obtain and forward inquiries for Canadian goods to headquarters at Ottawa and Canadian exporters; to report on import requirements in their territories and to make direct inquiries or conduct preliminary surveys regarding the potential market for any product, reporting the exact kinds of goods wanted, competition to be met, methods of packing, shipping or billing, tariffs and trade regulations affecting these goods, etc.

With regard to imports, Trade Commissioners assist Canadian importers and manufacturers who desire advice on the present and prospective supply of goods and materials available in various countries, best methods of purchase, methods of approach to overseas suppliers, prices, specifications, packing, etc.

Trade developments the world over are reported by Trade Commissioners to the Department at Ottawa and this information is available to all Canadian exporters and importers. They also prepare periodic reports on trade, business and financial conditions, markets for particular commodities, materials available for supply for import into Canada, and other related subjects for publication in Foreign Trade or in pamphlet form. The subscription rate for this weekly is $1.00 per year in Canada and $3.50 outside Canada. Orders can be addressed to the King's Printer, Government Printing Bureau, Ottawa.

Trade Commissioners' Tours

The periodical return of Trade Commissioners for official tours of the Dominion is one of the most important factors in effecting practical co-operation between Canadian firms interested in foreign trade and businessmen in other countries. The Trade Commissioner can, during the course of his tour, call upon or discuss export and import problems with practically every firm specially interested in exporting to, or importing from, his territory. The Department endeavours to bring back the Trade Commissioners by a scheme of rotation, giving special consideration to officers in tropical or unhealthy posts, but these visits are always subject to the exigencies of trading conditions, and of the Service generally. Well in advance of the time of arrival in Canada individual exporters and importers are circularized for the purpose of determining what special points they wish to take up and on which full information is secured. In addition to this form of publicity, the Department publishes a notice in Foreign Trade inviting firms who may be interested in any particular territory to state whether an interview is desired. The names of such firms, together with those with whom the Trade Commissioner has been in communication, form the basis of the itinerary. Firms anxious to interview any Trade Commissioner on tour may do so by communicating with the Director of the Service.

Assistance That Can Be Given By Canadian Trade Commissioners to Exporters

In any investigation which Canadian exporters or manufacturers may wish to make, looking to possible markets for the products they manufacture or produce, Trade Commissioners are prepared to render a wide range of assistance, which may be indicated, in part, as follows:

Commercial Information

1. Preliminary information relating to possible markets abroad for Canadian products, including:
   (a) The present and prospective demand.
   (b) Foreign and local competition (with specimens, catalogues and prices if desired and if obtainable).
   (c) Details of best selling methods.
   (d) Reports on foreign buyers, though the Department cannot assume any responsibility in any opinions expressed by Trade Commissioners. They, however, will use their best endeavours to advise exporters as to the standing of such firms.
   (e) Specifications of articles in particular demand.
   (f) Definite inquiries and invitations to tender for goods in demand in foreign countries.
   (g) Shipping services.
   (h) Quotas and licensing controls still in effect.

Agents, Buyers, and Distributors

2. Trade Commissioners will also:
   (a) Recommend to intending exporters the names of responsible parties in a position to act as agents or buyers and distributors.
   (b) Give every possible assistance to such agents, etc., and will introduce them to influential individuals or associations who may be in a position to buy goods from Canada.
   (c) Give confidential information, when so requested, as to the activities of agents appointed by Canadian exporters, or firms to whom sales have been, or are being, made.
3. Trade Commissioners can assist in advising Canadian exporters and manufacturers:
   (a) As to the best media in which to place advertisements and the form which such advertisements should take, i.e., their adaptation to the special requirements of the community.
   (b) In the display of catalogues, price lists and samples where they can be seen by potential buyers.
   (c) As to the distribution of trade literature and its probable cost.
4. (a) Trade Commissioners are always prepared to receive visitors from Canada and introduce them to possible buyers or agents, or put them in contact with such experts as legal advisers, interpreters, and shipping and banking representatives.
   (b) The good offices of Trade Commissioners can always be invoked with a view to settling difficulties which may arise between the Canadian exporters and buyers abroad.
   (c) Trade Commissioners will provide such information as may be available as to freight rates, customs, port dues, etc., so as to enable Canadian firms to quote prices for delivery overseas. They will be glad also to provide information respecting cost of travel, regulations applicable to commercial travellers, packing and marking of goods, shipping accommodation, storage arrangements, and any other foreign government regulations or conditions which have to be complied with.
   (d) Trade Commissioners provide foreign buyers proceeding to Canada with letters of introduction to Departmental officials, Canadian exporters and trade associations.

Financial Arrangements

5. Particulars can be obtained with regard to:
   (a) Terms of credit which may be given to foreign buyers.
   (b) Financial houses and banks who will discount bills or give credit.
   (c) Regulations governing the recovery of debts in foreign countries.
   (d) Disposal of goods abroad contracted for but not accepted by foreign buyers.
   (e) Infringement of trade marks or patent rights and advice on registration.

Information Exporters Should Give to Trade Commissioners

The meagre information frequently furnished by Canadian exporters places a serious handicap on the Trade Commissioner in his efforts to market their products.

A general statement, therefore, of the facts about the exporter, his banking references, whether he is already engaged in foreign trade, and for what period and to what extent, are some of the essentials which should be given in the first letter either to the Department or to a Trade Commissioner, particularly the latter. He also wants general data about the commodity which the exporter wishes to sell in that particular market, the manufacturing process, noting any special advantages pertaining to the line offered, particularly as compared with well-known articles of the same type from other countries. He also wants to know exactly what the manufacturer is himself willing to do to place his goods in the new field; the basis on which sales would be made to the importer or on which goods could be offered for sale by a recognized agent, and the commission that would be paid the latter; what would be required of an importing house or agent in order to obtain the agency for the line; whether the manufacturer would send consignment stock or samples and in what quantity; whether he is prepared to advertise or to co-operate in advertising and to what extent; the facilities possessed by the manufacturer for export shipment, and the kind of supervision that is exercised by him over the packing of goods destined for a distant market.

Prices

Prices should never be quoted from an interior manufacturing point in Canada. Where quotations c.i.f. port of destination are not practicable, they should be given f.o.b. steamer, but it is strongly recommended that prices should be quoted c.i.f. This is a most important point, as the foreign buyer has no definite knowledge of the charges likely to be incurred if quotations are f.o.b. cars at port of shipment, and freight rates from some interior point in Canada to the seaboard are unobtainable in foreign countries. He has no means of knowing insurance rates, or the elements that enter into the fixing of the premiums. As a rule he is unable to obtain a quotation of an outward freight rate at an inward port, as the general practice of steamship companies is to refer a request for a freight rate from (say) Montreal to Auckland to the agent in the former city, although an approximate rate may be quoted. The foreign buyer is at a distinct disadvantage unless prices are quoted c.i.f.

Discounts

Discounts should be printed, or typewritten, preferably on a folder or slip accompanying the catalogue. In submitting an illustrated descriptive catalogue to prospective customers the importer should not be placed in the position of having to disclose the exact terms on which the goods are offered to him.

Gross and Net Weight

A knowledge of the gross and net weights per unit quoted is essential. Without these the prospective purchaser is unable to estimate laid down costs.

Summary of Points to be Noted

The fullest possible information in regard to the commodity and complete details on the following points would greatly aid the Trade Commissioners in the intelligent handling of inquiries addressed to them as to the introduction and subsequent marketing of Canadian goods on behalf of exporters:—

1. Cable address, code used, and special code words not in the regular code books.
2. Bankers' and trade references.
3. (a) The basis on which prices are quoted, whether c.i.f. main foreign ports; f.a.s. Canadian ports; or f.o.b. vessel.
   (b) Are prices in Canadian or United States funds?
   (c) If prices are c.i.f. and transshipment has to be made are such items as consular charges and disbursements at port of transshipment and/or unloading for account of buyer?
4. Are quotations firm, or subject to change without notice due to fluctuations in costs of raw material?
5. On what quantity basis are quotations made? Can prices be reduced on quantity orders and if so how much?
6. Are orders subject to acceptance by exporter?
7. What brand do lines bear, and are these to be sold under this brand in foreign markets?
8. What is the nature of packing? Heavy wooden crates, boxes, new bags or burlap?
9. Are lines stocked and available for immediate shipment? If not, how long after receipt of order will goods go forward?

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

10. What are your terms? Is there a special discount for cash?
11. What is the gross and net weight in pounds? Measurement in cubic feet?
12. What marketing methods has the exporter found to be most successful at home or in other foreign markets, and what kind of distributor or agent is believed to be most desirable?

With the foregoing information on hand, supplemented by recent catalogues and descriptive literature, and, if not too bulky, a small range of samples (sent in accordance with instructions), Trade Commissioners are put in a position to give the best service to Canadian exporters and can either place them in communication with reliable importers or recommend suitable agents.

NOTE: Samples should not be sent to the Trade Commissioner or to prospective agents with the first exchange of correspondence. In some countries there are regulations governing the sending of samples, and if these are not rigidly adhered to heavy fines may be levied irrespective of whether or not there is any attempt to defraud the Customs concerned, and there may be no appeal. Further, in case there is no chance of marketing the commodity in question because of highly protected local production, tariff preferences, exchange regulations or other causes, it is advisable, in order to avoid unnecessary expense to await a request for samples. The instructions as to how they are to be sent should be scrupulously followed.

Trade Inquiries of Interest to Canadian Exporters

Trade Commissioners forward to the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa details regarding specific trade inquiries received by them for Canadian products. Trade inquiries are published in Foreign Trade, or referred to all interested Canadian firms who are requested to correspond directly with the inquirers. The standing of the inquirer is carefully checked, but the Department of Trade and Commerce cannot accept any financial responsibility for business transactions undertaken with them. Confidential information as to the financial status of the inquirers may be obtained from the Department by bona fide Canadian manufacturers and exporters. A copy of any initial reply to the inquiry should be sent to the Department for follow-up purposes. If writing to the Department regarding an inquiry, please quote the name of inquirer, date of issue of the Foreign Trade, and file number of the inquiry.

Assistance That Can Be Given By Trade Commissioners to Canadian Importers

Canadian importers and manufacturers, who desire to secure goods and materials from various countries, and who are investigating the possibilities of obtaining needed supplies from abroad are invited to utilize the services of Canadian Trade Commissioners, although it is preferable, in most instances, for such Canadian firms first to approach the Director of the Import Division, Department of Trade and Commerce, who maintains records of overseas suppliers and is in a position in many cases to give first-hand information on principal sources of supply, import requirements, shipping services, price factors, customs duties, import permits, etc.

Trade Commissioners are in a position to advise Canadian importers on matters with respect to the following:—

Commercial Information

Preliminary information relating to the supply position of products available in the territories covered by their respective offices, such as:

(a) Present and expected supply of goods and materials.
(b) Types and classes of goods offering.
(c) Competitive nature of goods, with prices, terms, catalogues and samples when requested.
(d) Best purchasing methods, and methods of approach to foreign suppliers of import materials, marketing organizations, control boards, etc.
(e) Reports on exporters, supply houses, manufacturers, and their agents, although the Department cannot assume any responsibility for opinions expressed by Trade Commissioners respecting individuals or firms in other countries. The Trade Commissioners, however, will endeavour to give exporters and importers reliable information as to the standing of such firms.
(f) Specifications and quality of articles in supply.
(g) Basis on which sales will be made.
(h) Definite inquiries received on exporting goods to Canada.
(i) Shipping services.
(j) Foreign government export licensing.

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

Documentation, Invoicing, Customs

Trade Commissioners will be provided with Canadian marketing and import regulations to enable them to render practical assistance with regard to:

(a) Documents covering imports under Canadian regulations such as, "Meat and Canned Foods Act", "Animal Products Act", "Fruit, Vegetables and Honey Act", "Pure Foods Act", etc.
(b) Certification of documents when required.
(c) Canadian Customs invoicing.
(d) Marking, packing, and general handling of products.
(e) Canadian Customs Tariff rulings on articles as requested.
(f) Import permits, and quotas.

General

(a) Trade Commissioners will also introduce Canadian buyers visiting their territories to possible suppliers, manufacturers and selling organizations, bankers, forwarders, agents, shipping lines, interpreters, and assist them in every way possible.
(b) The good offices of Trade Commissioners can always be invoked with a view to settling difficulties which may arise between the Canadian importers and exporters abroad.

Financial Arrangements

Trade Commissioners will advise on practices with regard to:

(a) Financing.
(b) Terms of purchasing.
(c) Basis of payments.
(d) Exchange factors and exchange control regulations.

Assistance That Canadian Importers Can Give to Canadian Trade Commissioners

While, as stated above, it is preferable for Canadian importers to approach first the Director of the Import Division, when writing the Trade Commissioner the importer can render material assistance by giving in his first letter a general statement with respect to his banking and trade references; nature of his business, i.e., manufacturer, importer, manufacturer's agent; whether he has previously engaged in foreign trade; experience he has had in the territory and if at present importing materials therefrom. Also, specific details should be given on the commodity to be imported; the price range to be met; basis on which prices should be quoted; quantity and quality of goods required; whether they are to be purchased on consignment or outright sale; when they will be required for delivery, and possible future requirements.

This information will enable the Trade Commissioner to canvass prospective exporters, advise Canadian importers of the response to their inquiry and place them in touch with any interested suppliers. The Trade Commissioners will, of course, be supplied with all details given by Canadian importers to the Import Division for inclusion in the Canadian Importers' Directory.

Trade Inquiries of Interest to Canadian Importers

Trade Commissioners will forward to the Director of the Import Division any inquiries they may receive from firms in their territories who are seeking an outlet in Canada for their products. Canadian importers listed in the Importers' Directory as being interested in the commodity in question will be circularized and the inquiries followed up by the Import Division on behalf of the importer.

General Information on Import Trade

General information on production, supply and price conditions in world markets for imported commodities can be developed on behalf of Canadian importers by the Import Division working through the Trade Commissioner Service and through other channels. In competitive lines it is at times of primary importance for the importer to become appraised of such factors as where goods are moving, through what hands, by what shipping and other trade services, etc., and through the agency of the Import Division and the Foreign Trade Service as a whole such trade "intelligence" on commodity movement can be provided on inquiry from importers. (See also: "Import Division".)

EXPORT DIVISION

The Export Division of the Foreign Trade Service at present comprises nineteen commodity specialists whose services are co-ordinated in five sections—Foods; machinery, metals and chemicals; wood, paper and products; textiles, leather and rubber products; and general products. In addition, there is an Exporters' Directory and the Export Permit Branch.

Officers in charge of the commodity sections and their staffs of commodity specialists are in a position to advise present and prospective exporters on the questions and problems arising in connection with almost every phase of their export operations—the potential markets for individual products, the selection of foreign agents, trade practices and procedures, etc. For this purpose, these officers maintain liaison with Canadian exporters and producers, and work in close conjunction with the Canadian Trade Commissioners abroad. The five commodity sections are composed of sixteen commodity groups—Live stock and products; dairy and products; fish and fish products; plants and products; machinery and industrial equipment; iron and steel products; non-ferrous metals and non-metallic minerals; chemicals and allied products; electrical machinery and equipment; automotive equipment and vehicles; textiles and apparel; leather, rubber and products; wood and products; paper and products; durable consumer-goods; and general products. These officers have also taken over most of the unfinished business of the Export Planning Division, and prepare any export quotas that may still be required for specific commodities.

The Exporters' Directory, a confidential list of exporters compiled with a view to having on file the name$_s$ and products of firms interested in export trade, is an important aid in placing foreign buyers in communication with Canadian companies in a position to offer particular commodities for export. A copy of this confidential directory is in the office of every Canadian Trade Commissioner. All Canadian firms interested in exporting should be listed in this directory; application forms can be obtained from the Exporters' Directory Section, Department of Trade and Commerce.

The Export Permit Branch, which operates under the Exports and Imports Act, is responsible for the issuing of export permits for these goods which are still under export control. These items at present consist of products in short supply in Canada or subject to intergovernmental arrangement. They are being progressively withdrawn from control as the supply position in Canada becomes easier. A subsidy refund is required on exports of commodities on which a subsidy has been paid by the Canadian Government in furtherance of its price control policy.

Copies of the export permit regulations as amended are available on application to the Export Permit Branch, 220 Queen St., Ottawa.

IMPORT DIVISION

The Import Division of the Foreign Trade Service has the primary purpose of assisting the Canadian importer in his capacity either as a broker, wholesaler, manufacturer or agent. Further basic objectives include the fostering, wherever possible, of direct trading with sources of supply for low-cost raw materials and food products, semi-processed materials and manufactured goods, and also of protecting Canadian interests in foreign supplies.

The Division maintains a confidential Directory of Importers and of overseas suppliers, cross-indexed and classified by commodities of trade. All Canadian importers are invited to register their interests with this Division in order that Trade Commissioners in the field may be in a position to serve them. Application forms can be obtained on writing to the Director, Import Division.

A further purpose of the Division is to obtain recognition abroad for Canada as an import market for raw materials, for consumers' goods and for re-export goods and materials, and to obtain low-cost supplies for industry. In this respect the Division is equipped to study all phases of import requirements governing the demand and supply situations, prices, shipping services, financial services, trade connections, trade practices, etc.

Another field for investigation to which the attention of the Division is directed is a comparison of the Canadian market, and the trade facilities which serve it and the foreign exporter, with facilities and conditions in markets elsewhere. Wherever possible an effort will be made to obviate exceptional difficulties which foreign exporters may experience in their direct approach to the Canadian market due to its peculiarities. For this purpose Trade Commissioners will be supplied with all relevant marketing data to facilitate the movement of goods to Canada in compliance with Canadian regulations as to invoicing, packaging and general handling, and thus protect the interests of the Canadian importer. (See also: "Trade Commissioner Service, Assistance that can be given to Canadian Importers".)

COMMERCIAL RELATIONS AND FOREIGN TARIFFS DIVISION

The Division of Commercial Relations and Foreign Tariffs carries on a variety of research activities, conducts investigations on many aspects of commercial policy with a view to trade expansion, the renewal and appropriate revision of trade agreements, and the extension of export market opportunities as circumstances permit; and prepares data for trade negotiations with other countries. Potential markets in every major country are studied in the light of tariff and financial developments, domestic policies, and market information reported by Trade Commissioners abroad and business concerns in Canada. Of immediate concern to this Division are matters relating to commercial treaties actual and pending; regulations imposed by other countries in the form of import permits, quotas, exchange controls, duties and taxes, valuations for duty purposes, anti-dumping laws, marking of goods, and other regulations on the international movement of goods. The Division answers inquiries and publishes and circulates information of value to both the Canadian importer and exporter.

The Foreign Tariffs Section aids in the promotion of export trade by furnishing information on request to Canadian exporters and other branches of the government with regard to tariffs, documentation, export and import regulations and controls, quotas, embargoes, and other technical actors affecting the importation of Canadian products into Empire and foreign countries.

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT DIVISION

The objectives of the Industrial Development Division are to work closely with provincial, municipal, and other agencies in connection with the establishment of new industries, and the development of new products, especially those suitable for export markets.

TRADE PUBLICITY DIVISION

The objectives of the Trade Publicity Division are:

(a) To acquaint Canadian businessmen in particular and the public generally with the facilities offered by the Foreign Trade Service.

(b) To stimulate in Canada an appreciation of the importance of export and import trade to the Canadian economy and to cultivate an informed approach to foreign trade dealings.

(c) To encourage foreign businessmen to look to Canada as a source of supply and as a market, and to direct their attention to the services offered by the Canadian Government to facilitate dealings with Canada.

The work of the Division is organized into three sections: the first handles the preparation of publications (including the weekly editions of "FOREIGN TRADE" and its French counterpart "COMMERCE EXTERIEUR"), containing reports on market and economic conditions in other countries, trade inquiries, and similar commercial intelligence for Canadian businessmen; the second, a News Section, maintains a flow of information, news and articles suitable for publication in the daily and periodical press of Canada and other countries; and the third carries out advertising campaigns at home and abroad to support the promotion of Canada's foreign trade.

ASSOCIATED AGENCIES AND SERVICES

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT EXHIBITION COMMISSION

Under Order-in-Council P.C. 4171 the Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, a division of the Department of Trade and Commerce, is charged with the responsibility for the organization and administration of all Canadian exhibits in international exhibitions, trade fairs, etc. in which the Canadian Government decides to participate, as a result of invitations received from abroad.

The Commission is also charged with the responsibility of securing the co-operation of Canadian manufacturers and producers and assisting them in exhibitions abroad.

The Commission is required to work out methods by which practical assistance and advice can be extended to Canadian manufacturers and producers to increase the sale of their goods in countries abroad through the medium of exhibitions of various kinds. In addition, the Commission endeavours to advise exhibitors and their agents on the best means of displaying Canadian products under favourable conditions by other methods than participation in exhibitions, such as shop windows, displays, trade fairs, etc.

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

The Canadian Government Exhibition Commission maintains an office and plant at 479 Bank Street, Ottawa, as well as a small branch in the United Kingdom with Head Office at Canada House, and warehouse facilities at Blackburn Road, in London.

Communications concerning exhibits and exhibitions should be addressed to the Director, Canadian Government Exhibition Commission, 479 Bank Street, Ottawa.

CANADIAN COMMERCIAL CORPORATION

The Canadian Commercial Corporation was established as of May 1, 1946, by Act of Parliament, for the following purposes:—

(a) To assist in the development of trade between Canada and other nations, and
(b) To asist persons in Canada:—
  (1) To obtain goods and commodities from outside Canada, and
  (2) To dispose of goods and commodities that are available for export from Canada.

By the terms of the Act the Corporation took over the whole of the undertaking of the Canadian Export Board (established by Order in Council P.C. 70 of 31st January, 1944), which agency was at that time carrying out procurement functions in Canada on behalf of foreign governments, United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and the Canadian Mutual Aid Board. As a result, the Corporation continued without interruption all procurement action being taken on 30th April, 1946, by the Canadian Export Board, and has continued to render similar services to a number of foreign governments, particularly those to whom Canada has extended loans. In addition, the Corporation has been able to give assistance to Canadians in the procurement of goods from other countries where, by reason of regulations in those countries, it was necessary that transactions be handled in whole or in part through a government agency.

By Order in Council P.C. 314, of 5th February, 1947, the power, duty and function vested in the Minister of Reconstruction and Supply to purchase or produce munitions of war or supplies, as well as to construct or carry out projects required by the Department of National Defence, was transferred to the Minister of Trade and Commerce. In connection with this transfer the Minister of Trade and Commemerce was authorized to make use of the services of the officers and servants of the Canadian Comercial Corporation. Under this authority the officers and employees of the Canadian Commercial Corporation have, since February 1st, effected all procurement for the Department of National Defence, acting as agents for the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

By an Act to amend The Canadian Commercial Corporation Act, assented to 17th July, 1947, the Corporation, as such, was empowered to act as agent, on behalf of the Minister of Trade and Commerce in carrying out the powers, duties and functions transferred to him under Order in Council P.C. 314.

The Corporation, therefore, has three separate but related functions. It acts as procurement agency in Canada for foreign governments and UNRRA; it is available to assist Canadian importers; and, in effect, it acts as agent for the Minister of Trade and Commerce in procurement for the Department of National Defence.

EXPORT CREDITS INSURANCE CORPORATION

Administered by a board of directors, including the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, the Deputy Minister of Finance and the Governor of the Bank of Canada, the Corporation insures exporters against credit losses involved in the export or an agreement for the export of goods. Policies are issued on a yearly basis, covering exporters' sales to all countries and protecting them against the main risks of loss involved in foreign trade. The main risks covered by Export Credits Insurance Policies include: insolvency or protracted default on the part of the buyer; exchange restrictions in the buyer's country preventing the transfer of funds to Canada; cancellation or non-renewal of an import licence or the imposition of restrictions on the import of goods not previously subject to restrictions; the occurrence of war between the buyer's country and Canada, or of war, revolution, etc. in the buyer's country; and additional transport or insurance charges occasioned by interruption or diversion of voyage outside Canada or the continental United States of America.

The insurance is available under two main classifications: (i) General Commodities, (ii)Capital Goods. Coverage for General Commodities can be procured by exporters under two types of Policies: (i) the Contracts Policy, which insures an Exporter against loss from the time he books the order until payment is received; or (ii) the Shipments Policy, obtainable at lower rates of premium, and which covers the exporter from the time of shipment until payment is received. Insurance of Capital Goods offers protection to exporters of such commodities as plant equipment, heavy machinery, etc. which are subject to extended credit of longer periods than is customary for General Commodities. Special Policies are issued for transactions involving Capital Goods, but the general terms and conditions are the same as those applicable to Policies for General Commodities.

The Corporation insures exporters under all Policies up to 85 p.c. of the contract price, or gross invoice value of shipments. This co-insurance plan also operates in the distribution of recoveries obtained after payment of a loss, and these recoveries are shared by the Corporation and the exporter in the proportion of 85 p.c. and 15 p.c. respectively.

Policies are issued to cover an Exporter's estimated annual turnover, and since the first Policy was issued in October 1945 the face value of all Policies issued to December 31, 1946 is approximately $33,000,000.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL BOARD

(As of March 1st, 1948)

General

Established originally by Order-in-Council of September 15, 1939, under the authority of the War Measures Act, the Foreign Exchange Control Board continues to function by virtue of the Foreign Exchange Control Act which came into force on January 1st, 1947. This Act makes statutory provision for foreign exchange control in order to protect and control the value of the Canadian monetary unit in relation to foreign currencies and to ensure that Canada's resources in foreign exchange are available to finance trade and other current transactions with foreign countries. The Board is responsible to the Minister of Finance.

Sterling Transactions

Under United Kingdom exchange control regulations, sterling normally may be transferred to Canada only from sterling area countries and may be transferred from Canada only to such countries.

"Sterling area countries" are the United Kingdom, any Dominion or other part of His Majesty's Dominions (excluding Canada and Newfoundland) and any British mandated territory (except Palestine), protectorate or protected state, Burma, Iraq, Iceland and the Faroe Islands.

Exports

1. General

The procedure described in this Article is designed primarily to ensure that when goods are exported from Canada, payment of their value is received by the exporter in an appropriate currency and, in the case of foreign exchange, is sold to an authorized dealer and thereby made available to the Board.

2. Currency of Payment for Exports

(a) In general, a resident of Canada who sells goods which have been or are to be exported from Canada to a country other than Newfoundland is required to obtain payment of the fair value within six months of shipment in an appropriate currency as indicated below:

(i) Exports to Sterling Area Countries

(1) Sterling;
(2) Canadian dollars paid from a bank account in Canada of a resident of (including a bank in) a sterling area country or a special arrangement country referred to in (ii) below; or
(3) United States dollars.

"Sterling area countries" are as listed above.

(ii) Exports to Special Arrangement Countries

(1) United States dollars; or
(2) Canadian dollars paid from a bank account in Canada of a resident of (including a bank in) a special arrangement or sterling area country.

"Special arrangement countries" are Egypt, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Belgium, Luxembourg, Belgian Congo, Ruanda-Urundi, Czechoslovakia, France and the French Empire, Netherlands and Netherlands West and East Indies, Norway, Palestine and Transjordan.

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

(iii) Exports to United States Dollar Area Countries:

United States dollars.

"United States dollar area countries" are all those other than sterling area and special arrangement countries.

(b) Exporters should note that special authority from the Foreign Exchange Control Board is necessary before U.S. dollars may be obtained or used, or Canadian dollars tranferred to a resident of a United States dollar area country, to pay for goods which have been or are to be imported for re-export to a sterling area or special arrangement country unless

(1) the goods have been or are to be processed in Canada; or

(2) payment for the export has been or is to be received by the Canadian exporter in U.S. dollars.

3. Export Procedure—Except in those cases where a Customs Export Entry is ordinarily not required (e.g. gifts up to $25 in value, other shipments up to $5 in value, travellers' baggage and effects, etc.) combined Customs Export Entry and F.E.C.B. Form B13-B is to be prepared by the exporter and delivered to the Collector of Customs & Excise at the Port of Exit of the goods. The exporter should hand Form B13-B to the carrier accepting the goods for export for forwarding to the Collector of Customs and Excise. Where the terms of payment are in accordance with the Foreign Exchange Control Act and Regulations, the Collector approves the Form B13-B on behalf of the Board and sends a copy of the form to the exporter's bank. The prior approval of Form B13-B by the Board or an authorized dealer is required for exports to countries other than Newfoundland for which no settlement has been or will be made except in the cases specified in Section 38 (5) of the Regulations.

4. Proceeds of Exports—A resident of Canada who has or receives payment of any U.S. dollars, sterling or other foreign exchange is required to offer it for sale to his bank. F.E.C.B. Form C, copies of which are available at banks, is to be completed covering a sale to a bank of exchange arising from the sale of goods which have been or are to be exported where the amount is more than $100 or £25. This form is then "matched" by the bank with the copy of Form B. 13-B covering the export, which the bank has received or will receive from Customs. When an exporter receives payment for an export to a sterling area or special arrangement country in Canadian dollars, the exporter's bank is notified by the bank having the account from which the payment was made, and a similar "matching" procedure is followed.

5. BD and NS Permit Holders—The procedure outlined in paragraphs 3 and 4 above is varied in the case of exporters who carry out their transactions under BD and NS permits issued by the Board.

Imports

1. General

The procedure described in this article is designed primarily to ensure that when payments are made to non-residents, either in foreign exchange or Canadian dollars, for the purchase of goods, goods to the value of the payments are in fact brought into Canada.

2. Currency of Payment for Imports

(a) In general, a resident of Canada who buys goods which have been or are to be imported legally into Canada within ninety days may make payment for the fair value of the goods in appropriate currency as indicated below:

(i) Imports from sterling area countries:

(1) Sterling paid to a resident of a sterling area country; or

(2) Canadian dollars paid to a resident of a sterling area country or a special arrangement country referred to in (ii) below.

For the list of sterling area countries, see "Sterling Transactions" above.

(ii) Imports from special arrangement countries:

(1) Canadian dollars paid to a resident of a special arrangement or sterling area country; or

(2) United States dollars.

"Special arrangement countries" are Egypt, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Belgium, Luxembourg, Belgian Congo, Ruanda-Urundi, Czechoslovakia, France and the French Empire, Netherlands and Netherlands West and East Indies, Norway, Palestine and Transjordan.

(iii) Imports from United States dollar area countries:

(1) United States dollars; or

(2) Canadian dollars.

"United States dollar area countries" are all those other than sterling area and special arrangement countries.

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

(b) Special authority from the Foreign Exchange Control Board is necessary before an importer may obtain or use U.S. dollars, or transfer Canadian dollars to a resident of a United States dollar area country to pay for goods which have been or are to be exported to a sterling area or special arrangement country unless

(i) the goods have been or are to be processed in Canada; or

(ii) payment for the export has been or is to be received by the Canadian exporter in U.S. dollars.

3. Import Procedure—

(a) Where Customs Import Entry for goods imported into Canada is made on Customs Form B.1, B.5 or B.11, an importer is required, except in the case of goods imported from or originating in Newfoundland, to submit to Customs F.E.C.B. Form E. Form E is designed to be made out as one of the set of Customs forms. When import entry is passed, Customs approves the related Form E and returns it to the importer as evidence for the importer to produce to his bank that goods to the value stated have been imported.
Supplies of Form E are available at Customs Offices.

(b) Where Customs Import Entry is made otherwise than on Customs Form B.1, B.5 or B.11—usually imports valued at less than $100—the importer is required to obtain from Customs, in place of Form E, a certified copy of the Customs form or invoice used in clearing the goods through Customs.

4. Payment Procedure—A resident of Canada desiring to obtain U.S. Dollars, sterling or other foreign exchange, or to pay Canadian dollars to a non-resident in settlement for imports is required to apply to his bank for a permit. The application is to be made on F.E.C.B. Form F or G, respectively (unless the amount is $25 or £25 or less) and is to be supported by the Form E covering the importation of the goods or, where Form E was not required, the Customs document referred to in para. 3(b). Where application for foreign exchange or to pay Canadian dollars is made before the goods are imported, Form E is to be surrendered to the bank, or the other Customs documents are to be exhibited to it, as soon as importation is made. The bank "matches" Forms F or G covering payments for imports with Forms E or other Customs documents evidencing the importation of the goods.

In the fifth and later printings of Form E, provision is made whereby an application to a bank for foreign exchange to settle in full for goods already imported may be made on the back of the Form E itself. Where this is done, an application on Form F is not necessary.

5. Permit Holders—The procedure outlined in paras. 3(b) and 4 above is varied in the case of importers who carry out their transactions under BD or NS permits issued by the Board.

NATIONAL HARBOURS BOARD

The principal seaports of Canada are an integral and important part of Canada's extensive transportation system, forming the connecting links between the inland railway, waterway and highway carriers and the ocean carriers serving the trade routes between Canada and other countries. They have been developed in the interests of the country as a whole by the Government of Canada and are under the jurisdiction of the National Harbours Board, Ottawa. These seaports and facilities available thereat are as follows:—

EXPORT METHODS, FINANCING, PRICE QUOTATIONS, AND EMPIRE TARIFF PREFERENCES

FIVE METHODS OF DOING EXPORT BUSINESS

On the following pages will be found articles by experienced Canadian exporters on methods of conducting export business. These articles do not include all known methods, but they do cover the majority of recognized methods that so far have proved successful in Canada. Many firms operate combinations of these methods, depending on the types of markets to which they are selling. Each method should be considered in the light of the characteristics of one's own business and of the possible proportions to which the export side of it may grow.

The five methods range from the comparatively simple task of handling a highly specialized line by mail and the co-operation of Trade Commissioners to the handling of a very wide range of articles all used in the same trade by means of the establishment of wholesale branches of the Canadian house abroad.

Each method has its dangers and difficulties as well as advantages, and each is specially suited to certain general classes of business or types of distribution in export markets. No matter what method is adopted there is little doubt that a personal investigation of overseas markets by a principal or chief executive of the Canadian firm is the best preliminary in the development of successful export business. The initial costs of an investigation of this type may seem high at the time, but in most cases expenditures of this kind have proved to be a successful investment.

Method No. 1

Development of an Export Trade Through Branches in Other Countries Owned by the Parent Exporting Manufacturer in Canada

(Suitable for companies with a diversified product, most or all of which can find extensive export markets subjected to world-wide competition.)

The manufacturer who is endeavouring to build up an export trade to provide an increased and permanent outlet for his products and not simply looking for a channel through which to dispose of some surplus stock provided for domestic trade or to take up some plant capacity temporarily available should consider carefully the advisability of doing so through his own branches abroad, provided, of course, that his line is of a nature to warrant this consideration.

In contemplating the organization of a branch in a foreign country a great many conditions require to be taken into consideration. The territory should therefore be carefully surveyed to ascertain not only the present demand for his product but the possibility of increase in this demand for the future and how this increase is to come about. The state of the local industry and the competition therefrom, as well as competition from other sources requires to be looked into; also the possibility of securing a sufficient number of dealers of a satisfactory type to handle the lines; the general financial standing of these dealers and their attitude toward meeting obligations when due. Study should also be made of local preferences and prejudices, as it is surprising the influence these have in some parts of the world. Customs Tariffs and the possibility of revisions thereto; location for branch headquarters at a point where there are ample facilities at reasonable cost for the reception and storage of bulk stocks, as well as convenient and adequate transportation service for distribution, also require to be looked into. These, and a number of other matters which will suggest themselves, should be carefully investigated in order to give the question intelligent consideration and arrive at a decision.

If, after investigation, the manufacturer is satisfied that a sufficient demand for his product exists in a certain country and is also satisfied that conditions generally would warrant consideration being given to the establishing of a branch selling organization there, then the advantages and disadvantages of the branch system will require to be carefully weighed.

Marketing through a branch selling organization presents several advantages:

1.—The entire effort of the selling organization is concentrated on the one line and there are therefore no diverting interests as is frequently the case where a jobbing house handles a large range of goods. The manufacturer's products under the branch system cannot at any time be treated as a side line to be ignored when goods returning a greater margin of profit can be sold. Travellers and salesmen are not tempted to follow the line of least resistance as is possible where they have optional lines to offer to a dealer.

2.—If a line is one requiring service of any kind, the manufacturer can ensure his own and his customers' interests being properly cared for by providing a service staff having a thorough and expert knowledge of his goods, and it is recognized that an efficient service, where required, brings increased trade.

3.—A branch selling organization enables a manufacturer to keep more closely in touch with the requirements of the market and therefore be in a position to meet, or even anticipate, changing demands on the part of the purchasing public.

4.—In operating through a branch selling organization, the manufacturer can plan and carry on an advertising and selling campaign best suited to the sale of his lines and is free to take such action as he may consider necessary to meet any unusual conditions which may arise from time to time without having to depend upon or to consider first the interests of the importing jobber.

5.—From the standpoint of financial risk, instead of having one or two large accounts, the manufacturer will have a number of smaller accounts scattered throughout the country. In the opinion of many, a number of smaller accounts is an advantage as, after all, there is something to be said in favour of not putting the eggs all in one basket.

6.—It is reasonable to expect that the expense involved in the operating of a branch selling organization could be met by the additional margin obtained through selling direct to the dealers instead of to a large importing jobber. Even if the Branch could not do better than break even on its operations, the manufacturer would still have the advantage of his manufacturing profit on a larger volume.

7.—An esprit de corps can be developed which is a valuable asset in any selling organization.

There are, of course, some disadvantages. for instance:

1.—During a seasonal slackness or a period of temporary depression, when the demand for the manufacturer's particular product may drop off, the selling organization is handicapped through not having other lines with which to fill in.

2.—The necessity of carrying stocks which, in dealing with a large importing jobber, would very likely have been sold outright. This carrying of stocks also involves the making of provision against obsolescence.

3.—The handling and following up of numerous smaller accounts.

4.—A somewhat increased overhead at headquarters because of the necessity for executive supervision.

There are no doubt other disadvantages, some more applicable to one line than to another; however, the advantages of operating through a branch selling organization would appear to much more than offset the disadvantages, assuming, of course, that the manufacturer's line is sufficiently large and varied, the demand sufficient, and conditions generally favourable to operating in this way.

Except for the Chief Executive and perhaps one or two key men, an overseas branch should be staffed by men who speak the language of the country and who have an intimate knowledge of the country, its requirements, the people and their customs. The Branch Manager, or Chief Executive, should be one who is thoroughly familiar with the Company's products and policies and one who possesses good sound judgment. Located as he usually is, thousands of miles away from headquarters, he is frequently called upon to deal with important problems requiring prompt attention which cannot be conveniently or adequately discussed with his Head Office by telegraph or even by telephone, which is now available.

Several Canadian companies are already operating through branch houses abroad. No doubt any of them would be willing to assist other manufacturers contemplating operating in the same way by supplying whatever information they may have available.

Development of Export Trade Through Resident Agents or Representatives Visited at Intervals by Executive of Canadian Exporting Manufacturer

(An excellent method that has worked out successfully in many lines as it provides for gradual growth and expansion, coupled with establishment of close personal relations with representatives and informing travel by export executive and an interchange of visits to the plant by representatives. This should be read in close conjunction with Method No. 3, with which it is closely allied.)

From a sales standpoint there are many advantages in having a resident agent, particularly if it is possible to have him visit the plant, get thoroughly acquainted with the product by closely following up through all stages of manufacture, meet the personnel of the Company, familiarize himself with the method of packing and general handling of export shipments.

A few of these advantages are as follows:

(1) A resident agent can approach customers with more confidence in the product as he is able to converse freely in the language of the country. From personal experience in the Far East and Continent of Europe, have found in many cases difficulty in getting anywhere on account of not being able to speak the language.

(2) A resident agent can keep principals posted on competitive lines and demands for necessary improvements to meet market conditions.

(3) Is in the position to revise and add to mailing lists of already established and prospective customers.

(4) Being in close touch with the financial standing of customers is able to take action on principal's behalf in the event of collection difficulties. In this connection might mention we give our resident agents authority to act on our behalf. If draft is refused, instead of costly cables and delays, it is immediately referred to the resident agent for further instructions.

(5) Is able to transfer shipments in event of disputes. In one or two cases, after shipment had left Canada, it was necessary to hold up on account of credit, which was taken care of by cable and turned over to resident agent for disposal elsewhere.

(6) Is in the position to investigate orders or enquiries which may be received by principals direct.

The advantages of visiting resident agents, as the writer sees them, are many; preferably the President, Vice-President, General Manager, or Sales Manager, as in most cases it is best to make a decision on the spot so to speak. Naturally it is better that this executive should be in close touch with the Export Department.

Visits of this kind bring the line up to date, establish confidence between agents and principals, in addition to getting first hand information as to the class of house from which orders are being received.

Might I repeat again it is very desirable if possible, to have the agent visit the factory. The executive can very often obtain information regarding the sale of competitive lines which the agent does not always seem able to obtain. Manufacturing information can very often be picked up. A general size-up of the agent's ability and his connections can be intelligently made. How often have we sized up a man by correspondence and on making his acquaintance found a totally different person than we had pictured.

In some cases the resident agent is the most economical way of conducting export business, providing, of course, you have a real live agent. There is not any definite rule that I know of to select agents or representatives. I recall one time in Australia, of interviewing a resident agent who was not interested, but later on was approached by the same firm's branch in another city, by one of their Directors who saw possibilities in our line. The firm in question turned out to be live representatives.

There seems to be some element of luck in selecting agents or representatives. In order to avoid liability it might be better to classify as resident representatives not resident agents.

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

Method No. 3

Development of Export Trade Through Resident Agents Abroad With No Personal Visits by a Representative of the Canadian Exporting Manufacturer

(A very large number of Canadian manufacturers use this method, gradually moving towards Method No. 2, which supplements and strengthens it.)

The policy of appointing a resident Agent abroad without any personal supervision from a representative is one which is attended with many risks and much dissatisfaction unless preceded beforehand by a very careful investigation into:

(1) The standing of the individual or Company in the business community.

(2) His or their financial responsibility.

(3) Integrity.

(4) Business capabilities.

(5) Number and kind of other lines carried.

Too often the manufacturer looking for export business will accept the first application received for an agency arrangement, without making the ordinary investigations which would be made upon receipt of a similar application on the domestic market. Even at the present time applications are constantly being received by exporters from many bright and well-intentioned people who, after seeing or hearing of a new line, think they can sell it against old and established importing agencies who have probably controlled their market on this line for a great many years and who if approached by some obscure individual with a competitive line would give it scant consideration. It is, therefore, vitally necessary that the business standing of an individual or company should be known, in order for your product to receive fair and impartial consideration.

This will also protect the intending exporter from the unscrupulous type of individual who sends in his application under an assumed company name, on very elaborately got up business note paper, with the intention of obtaining a good set of samples for nothing.

What emphasis should be placed on financial responsibility will depend entirely on whether the agent is going to act on a purely commission basis, merely soliciting orders and passing them on to the manufacturer for shipping and financing, or to buy direct himself and in turn resell to the trade.

The integrity of an agent should be unquestionable, because any suspicion of sharp practices would immediately reflect on the company appointing the agent, and result in a definite restriction and loss of trade.

The business capability of the proposed agent should also be scrutinized; there should be a reputation for being thoroughly acquainted with all lines carried, ability to promote sales, judicious in the selection of customers and the granting of credit risks. Much profitable export business can easily be turned into serious and heavy losses unless the latter requirement is carefully followed.

Then it is very essential to know the number and kind of other lines carried, to ascertain if they are in any way complementary or competitive. It may be that the applicant is already carrying too many lines and it has been found in practice that there is a tendency to push only those lines easy to sell, or giving the greatest remuneration. Even if the agent is thoroughly reliable, it is difficult to become thoroughly acquainted with every item carried, with the result that the added new lines may suffer in comparison with the older ones. Often an agent will undertake to carry a competitive line just to prevent some other agent more favourably placed from obtaining it, sending in just sufficient orders to create the impression that an effort is being made to place the line on the market, but at the same time actually throttling its development.

There is no difficulty in obtaining resident agents overseas as an advertisement in any export Journal will bring a host of applicants, the majority of whom will guarantee to handle the line offered in the most efficient manner. The problem to solve is to be able to pick out from the replies received the one who will handle your line most successfully.

A much safer way is to entrust your agent problem to the Canadian Trade Commissioners, seeking their advice after giving them full information about your product.

It is not to be suggested that the right person or company will always be selected and in order to guard against errors of judgment and to protect them as far as possible, it would be advisable to limit the contract of any new agent appointed to one or two years, during which time you will have ample opportunity to check up and study the results obtained. If not satisfactory, the contract can then be broken off at the end of the stipulated period.

From the above it is very obvious that only the best type of individual or company should be chosen as your representative and the success or failure to open up an export market will depend very materially upon this.

The decision to appoint an individual or a company will depend to a great extent on the nature of the commodity to be exported, the distribution desired, and the extent of the market. In some countries it may be advisable to confine your agency to a large company who are in touch with all wholesale outlets, and while this may restrict the distribution, it has this compensation that credit risk is practically reduced to a minimum, and in some cases goods are paid for immediately upon receipt at the usual cash terms. Should it be the policy of the exporter to place his goods through as many outlets as possible, then the individual agent provides the best possible medium because he buys nothing for himself but simply solicits orders for the manufacturer and the greatest advantage lies in the ability of such a man to get business for his principals, from all possible buyers in his field. Another added advantage is that being constantly on the ground, he is able to take immediate advantage of every opportunity the moment it arises, and to adjust troubles and complaints that are almost certain to arise in the conduct of any business, whether it is foreign or domestic. Furthermore, there is bound to arise the question of extended and disputed drafts and he can safeguard payments and collections for his principals.

The agent's duties are not confined only to the securing of orders and some of his time will have to be spent in adjusting difficulties as they arise, also explaining away injudicious letters from the home office, for oftentimes a good connection is lost through a lack of tact and courtesy on the part of the sender.

The chief disadvantage in appointing an agent without personal supervision lies in the almost impossibility of making him or them acquainted with changes in business policy by means of a letter, no matter how well constructed it may be. It is then that close personal contact can explain away in a few minutes any misgivings held, what otherwise may take several letters spread over a considerable period. When export business is being operated at little or no profit it is difficult to explain by letter why an advertising allowance cannot be made or unreasonable claims accepted.

In summing up, it can safely be said that satisfactory business can be obtained by this method, although of course it will always lack that undefinable something which always comes with personal contact.

The Development of Export Trade Through Export Merchants, Export Buying Houses or Indent Houses

(This method or really two methods in one, with many similar characteristics, offers a wide field for certain varieties of products but if used solely should be chosen with the utmost discretion. The Indent House Method can fit in by consent with Methods two and three and can be attempted simultaneously.

Co-operation with reliable indent houses in suitable cases provides a means of training members of manufacturers' staffs in export technique and provides specialized selling and personal contacts in export markets while retaining the identity of manufacturers' goods through to the customer.

In the "Export Merchants" discussion prospective exporters would do well to ponder seriously over the disadvantages mentioned.)

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

There are many manufacturers in Great Britain who have been able to secure a splendid volume of business overseas without ever having had even an export department of their own. They have secured this business through London houses operating as Export Merchants or through London Indent firms.

EXPORT MERCHANTS operate really as Export Wholesale Houses. They make an arrangement with a Manufacturer by which they will have the control of anything he makes that may be shipped overseas. If the Manufacturer receives an enquiry from abroad, he refers it to this Export Merchant. The Merchant buys for cash from the Manufacturer and turns around and quotes the merchandise to firms overseas at a price that will give him a profit. He takes all the credit responsibility and even arranges for proper distribution in any market where there would seem to be a demand for this particular product. He has Representatives who travel to different countries in the world and in this way keeps in touch with his connections abroad.

There are many advantages to the Manufacturer from handling his export business in this manner:

1. It costs him nothing to sell his goods. He may at times find it necessary to supply something in the way of samples but this is likely to be a small matter and if it really amounts to something, he can usually arrange to supply the samples at regular prices, less a sample discount.

2. He sells for cash and has no credit risk. Manufacturers are often concerned and rightly so, about the credit standing of firms overseas who may wish to buy their goods. Selling to the Export Merchant, he gets his money even sooner than for domestic sales.

3. He avoids the necessity of having an export department in his business. The Export Merchant looks after all details of shipping, insurance and invoicing and all the Manufacturer has to do is to ship his goods to Seaboard as directed and submit ordinary domestic invoices. The overseas correspondence is conducted by the Export Merchant, who is competent to look after this even if it be in a foreign language.

4. He increases the volume of business passing through his plant and in this way lowers his unit cost of production. This enables him to compete more successfully in his own market.

The disadvantages of this method are not great. There are one or two features that should be considered:

1. He will probably not know his customers overseas and if for any reason, the Export Merchant breaks his connection, he may lose his overseas business. However, the Export Merchant is not likely to do this so long as he gets good treatment from the Manufacturer. It costs money to develop a market and no one wishes to have to do it with a new product if he already has one established.

2. He will need to make sure that the Export Merchant has a distinct possibility to get business for it has been known to happen that representation of a line has been gotten to keep it off the market. For that reason, it should only be given for an initial period of not too long so that if business does not result, he can take other means to get it.

INDENT FIRMS are really Buying Houses or Purchasing Houses in one country for firms located in other countries overseas. Many overseas firms prefer to have all their business attended to by their own buying offices located in centres of countries where manufacturing industries are plentiful. Such firms as these are often a good means of getting manufactured goods introduced to their overseas clients.

1. They usually buy for first class firms only.

2. They pay cash for all purchases.

3. They attend to all details of shipping, insurance, invoicing and correspondence.

On the other hand:

1. They take no responsibility for sales at all but simply place orders on definite instructions received from their clients.

2. They buy only for their own clients and it may be possible there are other firms in overseas countries who might be interested in the goods. The indent houses will not offer the goods for sale to other than their own clients. Their distribution therefore is limited unless a Manufacturer is dealing with a number of Indent Houses operating in the same overseas markets.

The number of Export Merchants and Indent Firms in Canada has been limited, due probably to the fact that it is only comparatively recently that Canadian Manufactured goods have been shipped in volume and variety to overseas markets. It is only reasonable to expect that their numbers will increase and in this way, there will be offered to Canadian Manufacturers a method of securing export business that is sound, economical and safe.

Method No. 5

Development of Export Trade Direct by Mail

(This method though useful for highly specialized products marketed to well-rated and substantial customers is fraught with many dangers unless subjected to the closest analysis. It is true it grows gradually to the point of becoming exactly like Method No. 3, but the initial stages of attempting to do business direct by mail, without previous intense and discriminating selection of risks, are full of pitfalls and form a pretext for the propagation of many useless schemes.)

Many Canadian industries, organized primarily to supply their domestic market, do not have the large organization nor the facilities necessary to maintain branches or even direct agents handling only their products in foreign markets.

In these days of specialization, the products of many plants must sometimes be sold in the export markets by commission agents handling kindred lines in order to spread the selling expense over sufficient volume to make export sales profitable. In fact, modern practice has resulted in many plants making only one particular line of goods often of interest only to some one trade or profession. Often this means a field so restricted it does not pay the producer to seek export business through ordinary channels. However, such specialized lines usually have the advantage of being of special interest and usefulness to certain definitely known trades or professions. Lists of prospects for such lines can be obtained and trade solicited in foreign, almost as easily as in the domestic market. It is possible in this way to eliminate expensive selling costs and create a demand for such goods as will permit some responsible agent to stock or supply them profitably.

Of course, wherever this is practical, a selling agent right on the ground is always much better and more satisfactory. A good agent can create connections not obtainable by mail and can always learn why prospects are not interested or correct any misunderstanding which no amount of correspondence might bring out. It is no different in foreign markets than at home. Every purchaser takes the easiest way and will usually pay more to be relieved of all details of which he knows little or nothing.

The local agent has special advantages over direct-by-mail solicitation in countries using other than the English language. A good agent will speak fluently the one or more languages used and can usually translate special instructions into English for the manufacturer, thus overcoming many chances of misinterpretation.

Even if carefully written and checked over, transcriptions from English to other languages are sometimes misleading. Often the correct version does not convey the idea or thought as well as if the letter were written in the dialect peculiar to the country in which the prospect resides.

Particularly in financial matters, the agent can secure reports, approach only good accounts and help with collections when necessary.

But in spite of all these drawbacks it is possible to do a good and profitable export business direct by mail with lines which could in no other way be exported to advantage. Goods of exceptional interest and usefulness to some definitely known trade or profession—possibly not ordinarily obtainable except on special order or which must be delivered in fresh condition. Especially such goods as can be sent by Parcel Post.

The first step is to secure an agent to handle deliveries and lists of interested users. This can usually be done with the aid of the Canadian Trade Commissioner in the market to be tried.

The Commissioner should be given full particulars of the product—samples where possible—and suggestions as to the class of trade likely to be interested. He will suggest an agent and the best source for obtaining lists of prospects. Usually he can secure good lists for the exporter. As an official Canadian representative, the Trade Commissioner often has access to records and information not ordinarily obtainable. In fact, he can usually give better advice and suggestions about the market he represents than could be obtained by months of direct investigation. It is his duty to assist in the sale of any Canadian product in his market. No better corps of expert salesmen could be had at any price than is available to every Canadian exporter.

Having arranged for handling deliveries and secured a list of prospects, a carefully prepared campaign for that particular market should be worked out. Letters should always be in the language of that market. When other than English, such letters should be very carefully translated. If time permits, it is always best to submit the suggested series of letters to the Trade Commissioner for O.K. Translations are often much clearer and get better results if in the particular style or dialect in use in the prospect's country.

Full and complete description—good illustrations, showing the goods and their uses—are essential to best results. Even if it does not pay to translate catalogues or circulars, sufficient explanation should be given in the letters to make their advantages and uses clear to the prospect.

Arrangements with the agent should be made to either stock or obtain goods promptly a demand has been created so as not to lose the benefit of direct solicitation. With the help of the Trade Commissioner, a good agent should be arranged for who will supply the demand. With reasonable prospects the agent can be induced to purchase some stock or if sent on consignment to guarantee payment as the goods are sold. Once the agent is convinced there is a profitable demand he will undertake selling on his own account.

There is no doubt that many Canadian products could be exported in this way if reasonable time and care were given all the necessary details. Export markets are particularly desirable to most Canadian manufacturers to permit increased volume production—not always possible in a comparatively restricted home market. Even if such exports are sold close to actual costs, they are a great advantage in absorbing overhead costs and creating steady employment of sometimes highly trained staffs.

One thing should be kept in mind always—for the good of all Canadian exporters. Once foreign trade has been solicited, be prepared to make prompt deliveries of thoroughly dependable goods offering good value. A manufacturer who solicits foreign business only while his trade is slack in Canada and fails to give good service on foreign business during rush times in domestic trade is creating a very bad opinion in foreign markets, not only of his own concern but on all his fellow exporters as well.

Let every Canadian exporter maintain the good reputation created by our Trade Commissioners and by our most successful exporters by good service, reliable goods and fair dealing.

FINANCING CANADIAN EXPORT TRADE

The following statement, kindly prepared by C. K. Highmoor, Supervisor, Foreign Department, The Canadian Bank of Commerce, Head Office, Toronto, as of February 1st., 1948, outlines the services available through Canadian banks in connection with export business. It also touches briefly on financing of lengthy duration, The Export Credits Insurance Act, and International Monetary Agreements.

Every experienced Canadian exporter will agree that the sale of Canadian goods or services to a country outside Canada is not completed satisfactorily until the full amount of the anticipated proceeds have been placed at his disposal in Canada and in such form that without any encumbrance they can be used in Canada to pay the wages, materials and other expenses which went into the creation of the goods or services sold. It takes time, effort and materials to produce goods which will compete in other lands with the products of other countries and no matter what care is taken in the preparation of the goods, in their prompt and safe delivery, and in following through to see that the goods are satisfactory to the eventual user, the benefit to the producer and to Canada is likely to be lost if similar care is not taken in the manner in which the proceeds are collected from abroad.

All Canadian banks operate Foreign Departments designed to facilitate transactions with other countries, whether these involve payments abroad or collections abroad, and exporters, particularly those expanding their activities into new fields abroad, should avail themselves of the services of their banks in guarding against errors and oversights which can be made in this important matter of obtaining payment in satisfactory form from purchasers of their products, whether in near or distant lands.

PRICE QUOTATIONS

Exporters seeking buyers abroad are free to express their prices in any form or in any currency which they may desire or find convenient, though naturally must take into account also the convenience of the buyer. The currency in which they collect the proceeds, however, is a matter in which they must be guided by the requirements of the Canadian Foreign Exchange Control Board, which has made certain stipulations in that respect, and these are liable to change from time to time.

The present position, under the Foreign Exchange Control Act and Regulations, with regard to payment for exports of goods from Canada is described in the chapter entitled "Foreign Exchange Control Board".

CLARITY OF CONTRACTS

It is most desirable that the contract entered into between seller and buyer shall be clear beyond doubt as to the expense included in the selling price and as to the currency and manner in which the transfer of money from abroad to Canada shall take place. Apart from the sales cost of the goods at the point of production in Canada, there are of course other costs, such as rail and ocean freight, marine and war risk insurance, export licence fees, possible storage, transshipment, inspection, wharfage, forwarding, and other similar costs with which every exporter is familiar, but also financing costs such as collection fees, interest, revenue stamps, and sometimes other costs such as telegraphic fees, protest ees, etc. which can be important and may be overlooked.

It is possible for many of these to be foreseen, avoided, overcome, or at least provided for, at the time the contract is entered into, or in advance to last over a long period of time in the prospective dealings with an overseas buyer. In these latter respects Canadian banks can be most helpful and should be freely consulted.

METHODS OF PAYMENT

There are a number of methods by which payment can be received for shipments abroad and each has its appropriate place in a given set of circumstances.

The simplest, from the Canadian seller's point of view, is a remittance through banking channels at the time of acceptance of an order, in the appropriate currency, but this is a method which would be considered unreasonable by many buyers under normal conditions and one which few exporters would be able or care to require, particularly from firms of standing who would probably be unwilling to so employ their capital, having in mind that the goods may take some time to be prepared and shipped. Then again, under their own Exchange Control regulations, they may be prohibited from making payment until the goods have either landed in their own countries or at least are afloat.

A variation of this method is by direct remittance in the appropriate currency through banking channels when the goods have arrived, within a stated time thereafter, at time of shipment, or at some period mutually arranged between buyer and seller.

Another method is by drawing a draft on the buyers of the goods or their agents in the country of destination or elsewhere and lodging the draft for collection with a bank in Canada with or without shipping documents attached and either awaiting the returns of the collection by mail, air letter, air mail, or cable, or by borrowing thereagainst in Canada at the time the draft is lodged with the Canadian bank.

Still another method is to call for a Commercial Letter of Credit issued by the buyer's bankers and forwarded by mail to the seller or advised by cable through a bank in Canada.

The latter two methods are discussed more fully below under their respective headings.

FINANCIAL STANDING OF BUYER ABROAD

It is obviously important for the seller of Canadian goods to know something of the standing of buyers abroad not only from the point of view of moral reputation but also from a financial point of view and before considering the completion of any contract with strangers abroad it is desirable that inquiries should be made to that end. The Canadian banks, Government departments, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and other organizations have considerable information on the standing of firms abroad and can always assist in this respect even if inquiries have to be made abroad by mail or by wire. Upon this information depends to no little extent the choice of methods by which payment is to be sought and which in turn requires thought as to the extension of credit which is to be granted. This in turn depends on the seller's own financial ability to wait, the financial ability of the buyer to pay, the custom of the market into which the goods are to proceed, and the Exchange Control regulations both of that market and our own.

COLLECTIONS

Collections can be expressed in any currency but under present conditions are usually expressed in the currency agreed upon between buyer and seller according to his contract and as required under Control Board regulations. They can call for payment on demand, at sight, or at an appropriate term, such as 30 days sight, 60 days sight, 90 days sight, etc. They can be clean, i.e. not supported by any documents, or can have attached whatever shipping documents are desired.

Obviously, if a company attaches a complete set of invoices, negotiable bills of lading, marine and war risk insurance certificates or policies for an adequate amount, and other documents required for the release of the goods in the country of destination, and these documents are endorsed where required by the seller, the collection controls and retains the ownership of the goods until by permission they are released or until the draft is paid.

When delivering a collection to a bank, the amount of the draft must be clearly expressed in words and figures, the name and address of the drawee must be clearly given, the revenue stamps attached, and the bank must clearly understand whether the collection is to go forward by ordinary mail or air mail. The bank must also be placed in a position to give appropriate instructions to its correspondent abroad and these instructions should cover points which are liable to come up when the draft gets to its destination. The following are examples of some of the instructions which might be given in varying circumstances:

Hold for arrival of goods.
Protest for non-acceptance.
Protest for non-payment.
Collect bank charges.
Waive bank charges if refused by drawee.
In case of need, refer to . . . . . and advise immediately by mail (by cable).
Collect at selling rate for demand drafts on . . . . . Remit proceeds by cable at our expense.
Allow drawee interest at . . .% per annum if paid before maturity.
In case of dishonor, store and insure goods at our expense, cabling promptly.

Other types of instructions will be needed in certain cases and these will vary with circumstances. The objective should be to see that the collecting bank abroad is not left in doubt as to the action which he should take in possible or likely eventualities.

It is possible for collections to be drawn in such a way that interest is to be collected from the drawee over and above the face amount of the draft and where this is required, it should be enfaced on the draft itself by means of an appropriate clause, such as:

'Payable with interest at the rate of . . .% from date of draft to estimated arrival of return remittance in . . . . . '

or 'Payable at the collecting bank's selling rate for sight drafts on Canada plus interest at the rate of . . . % from date of draft to estimated date of arrival of return remittance in Canada.'

If remittance is required by cable, the clauses would be changed appropriately. The rate of interest inserted is usually that common in the country of destination.

In many cases, if desired, collections can be discounted with Canadian banks at the time of lodgment and, when expressed in foreign exchange, the proceeds sold immediately to the Foreign Exchange

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

Control Board. This disposes of the exchange risk if the draft is paid promptly but creates an exchange risk if the draft is dishonored. The availability for discount of a collection payable abroad depends, of course, upon the currency in which it is drawn, the term of the draft, the documents which are attached, but to a greater extent on the financial standing of the drawer and the drawee.

RISKS OF FLUCTUATION IN EXCHANGE RATES

The value in terms of Canadian dollars of all foreign currencies is subject to exchange fluctuations even under Control conditions as no one, not even Governments, can guarantee that current rates of exchange will remain unchanged over any stated period. To some extent these risks can be eliminated both under Control and open market conditions, by means of forward contracts. Canadians buying and selling goods abroad can enter into forward contracts with their banks for reasonable periods ahead when they have a firm contract with a buyer or seller abroad, and when a forward contract is entered into to deliver or take delivery of a stated amount of foreign exchange, the exchange risk is eliminated. Such contracts must, however, be completed and for the amount contracted. It is not possible to obtain a forward contract while open price quotations are in circulation prior to acceptance.

LETTERS OF CREDIT

Letters of Credit are extremely useful documents in financing foreign trade and the financing of a very large proportion of world trade is handled by that method. They are most adaptable and can be made to fit the requirements of almost any movement of goods under most circumstances. They vary, therefore, from country to country, from commodity to commodity, and between one method of shipment and another. While contracts in themselves, they do not constitute or replace sales contracts between buyers and sellers, but facilitate the carrying out of the latter. In all cases they carry an obligation of the issuer—in these days usually a bank—but the extent of these obligations varies from one credit to the next, and of course are no better than the standing and reputation of the issuer. It cannot, therefore, be taken for granted that every letter of credit is uniform with every other or that they remove all liability from the beneficiary.

They are at times irrevocable and at others revocable, at times carry the obligation only of the bank abroad, and at times carry the obligation not only of the bank abroad but also of a bank in Canada. They can be opened in such a way that the seller receives payment in Canada without further recourse on him, though never remove the responsibility for the sales contract to be duly and properly fulfilled. On the other hand, they may serve only the purpose of providing prompt cash in Canada with certain rights of recourse in some circumstances.

Their establishment by a bank abroad at the request of the buyer usually involves him in some expense and in the use of his credit, thereby adding some expense to the cost of the goods, so that they cannot, in face of competition, be requested in connection with every sale. The possibility of asking for payment in the form of a letter of credit should not, however, be overlooked and, if it is considered desirable that a letter of credit should be obtained, it is advisable to be somewhat specific in describing the type of letter of credit expected.

When details are received of a letter of credit which has been opened, it is important that its terms be studied and found acceptable. If unacceptable, request for amendment should be made immediately to the buyer so that no difficulty or delay will take place when the time comes to use the letter of credit. It is important also that the terms of the letter of credit be adhered to accurately and thoroughly since all letters of credit have an expiry date, either fixed in advance or at the pleasure of the issuer, and if the drafts and documents, upon presentation to a bank in Canada, are found out of order, the credit may have expired before the documents can be amended or corrected.

Space does not permit of a full description of the types of letters of credit or of all the documents for which they may call and the manner in which they should be prepared. In general, however, these documents must describe the goods at least as well as described in the letter of credit and must be in such negotiable shape that they control fully the eventual delivery of the goods, as well as guard against loss or damage while in transit. They rarely call for drafts on the buyer but usually for drafts on a particular bank and one of their important functions is to provide access to the principal money markets of the world so that interest costs involved are on an international level.

ABNORMAL CONDITIONS

The foregoing deals almost entirely with export conditions as at 1st February, 1948, which on the points covered are very similar to pre-war practice. It is conceivable that as world trade assumes proportions approaching or exceeding those pre-war some entirely new procedures may become necessary and indeed substantial buyers in some war-ravaged countries needing goods which Canada can supply are having difficulty in completing transactions because of international exchange difficulties or new or unrelaxed trade regulations. In these cases it is not likely that Canadian producers will be prepared or able to extend the terms of their collections to periods of a year, two years, or more, or that where financing of lengthy duration is involved, ordinary commercial letters of credit will be forthcoming despite their convenience and adaptability which normally protect the seller against international difficulties such as exchange restrictions, quotas, etc.

With this in mind, the Government of Canada has already passed The Export Credits Insurance Act and is continuing active participation in discussions leading to international monetary agreements on which import and export trade of the future may rest. Brief comments on these are given in the following paragraphs:

THE EXPORT CREDITS INSURANCE ACT

Under this Act the Export Credits Insurance Corporation was formed to provide insurance against a substantial part of any loss caused by insolvency, delays in collection, and transfer difficulties in connection with the export of Canadian-produced goods, and also, during the period of transition from war to peace, to provide for loans or guarantees to governments of other countries or their agencies.

Through this insurance Canadian exporters can guard against risks which heretofore it has not been possible to cover elsewhere. Provision is also made for large contracts with government agencies of other countries where negotiations between private firms are not yet possible or where payments over a long period of time are involved.

This insurance is not compulsory, nor does it mean that exporters because of this insurance will be able to take less care in the selection of their risks abroad or to dispense with letters of credit in all cases. The existing facilities of the banks for financing and collecting bills of exchange will continue to be used and much export business will still be done under letters of credit.

INTERNATIONAL MONETARY AGREEMENTS

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development is now in operation and the International Monetary Fund commenced dealings on 1st March 1947.

The principal purposes of the Fund, very briefly stated, are to promote international monetary co-operation, to facilitate the expansion and balanced growth of international trade, to promote exchange stability, to eliminate foreign exchange restrictions, and to provide other measures to correct maladjustments in international balance of payments without resorting to measures destructive of national or international prosperity.

The main purposes of the Bank, also in brief, are to assist in the reconstruction and restoration of economies destroyed or disrupted by war, the reconversion of productive facilities to peacetime needs, to promote private foreign investment, or to supplement this and by means of loans and guarantees to assist in bringing about a smooth transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy.

PRICE QUOTATIONS—FOREIGN TRADE DEFINITIONS

The basic transaction in international trade is the contract of sale and hence the terms employed in price quotations are of primary significance. The importance of there being a 'meeting of minds' of seller and buyer as to the intention of the parties conveyed in such terms is readily recognized. In an effort to define in a uniform manner certain well known terms generally used in making price quotations, there has been developed in various countries a set of rules or definitions which have been adopted by certain trade organizations and others setting out in some detail the obligations of seller and buyer attaching to the particular terms. In the United States the National Foreign Trade Council Incorporated, the National Council of American Importers Incorporated, and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America on July 30, 1941, through a joint committee, approved of what are known as "Revised American Foreign Trade Definitions—1941". These follow in general, although not in detail, the International Rules for the Interpretation of Trade Terms—generally known as "Incoterms, 1936"—approved by majority vote of the Council meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce on June 26, 1936. It should be understood, however, that the use of such rules is optional and that the approval of the particular rules referred to by designated trade bodies does not lend to them the force of law. Nevertheless, where a price quotation in accordance with these definitions and a contract of sale is concluded with a statement that the price is subject to these definitions, it would have considerable force in determining what is understood by the parties to the contract in respect to such price quotation.

While specific reference has been made to the "Revised American Foreign Trade Definitions—1941" and to "Incoterms—1936", it is essential to bear in mind, as previously pointed out, that foreign trade definitions have been issued by organizations in various parts of the world and the courts of different countries have interpreted these definitions in different ways. To reduce the opportunities for misunderstanding to a minimum, therefore, it is fundamental that there be agreement between seller and buyer as to what is actually meant when a price quotation is made. A buyer in a foreign country who is familiar with definitions endorsed by an organization in the foreign country and the court decisions interpreting such definitions, on receiving a price quotation from a seller in Canada is constrained to construe it in the light of such definitions unless the quotation is clarified by a stipulation as to what definitions apply in making the price quotation.

The terms commonly used are "F.O.B." (Free on Board); "C.I.F." (Cost, Insurance, Freight); "F.A.S." (Free Along Side) and certain elaborations of these terms. There are, however, many other terms which are used, some of which are shown in the definitions previously mentioned, while others are found in particular trades only. Where definitions are not formally approved and adopted by trade organizations for general use, it is necessary that a seller and buyer should specify exactly what is understood in respect thereto, indicating the obligations of both parties so that there may be no misunderstanding. In respect to "C.I.F." contracts, it further should be pointed out that the International Law Association adopted certain rules relating thereto in 1928 which, as later modified in 1931, are known as the "Warsaw-Oxford Rules".

In view of the foregoing very brief explanation of the importance of a mutual understanding between seller and buyer respecting price quotations, it will be seen that such matters should be given careful consideration so that the contract will be clearly understood by both parties.

DEFINITIONS OF TECHNICAL ABBREVIATIONS USED IN FOREIGN TRADE AND EXCHANGE TRANSACTIONS

The following list includes some of the principal abbreviations used in ocean shipping, transportation, marine insurance, and foreign exchange, as well as a number referring to standards, gauges, threads, dimensions, electrical and engineering terms. It was compiled with the assistance of our members, marine insurance companies, banks and departments of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It is hoped it will be useful both to Canadian exporters and importers of Canadian products abroad.

BRITISH EMPIRE TARIFF PREFERENCES ON CANADIAN GOODS

(As of January, 1948)

As a result either of trade agreements or of tariff concessions otherwise granted, reduced duties are in force in various parts of the British Empire favouring goods of Canadian origin as compared with similar goods of non-British origin. These preferences are of very great importance to Canadian manufacturers and producers who are interested in export trade, and consequently there is given below a brief outline of the preferences enjoyed by Canada in these Empire markets, the Empire content necessary to entitle the goods to preferential treatment, and the value on which ad valorem duties are levied in the various parts of the Empire.

While it is true that Canada has most-favoured-nation trade agreements with many non-British countries, including most of those in Latin America, the United States and Great Britain have similar arrangements, and thus Canadian goods do not enjoy any better tariff treatment in these countries than do goods manufactured in Great Britain or the United States.

In the outline of Empire tariff preferences on Canadian goods set out below, there is no mention made of the import licensing systems of other countries, nor of Canadian Export Permit Regulations. Practically all Empire countries, with the important exceptions of Newfoundland and the Union of South Africa, have import licensing systems, and goods should not be shipped from Canada until the exporter has been assured that the necessary import licence has been granted in the importing country, or that an import licence is not required for his particular product. As respects Canadian export permit regulations, many Canadian manufactured goods cannot be exported without a permit having been issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade Signed at Geneva, Switzerland

On October 30, 1947, there was signed at Geneva the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which became generally effective January 1, 1948, as far as concessions in Customs duties are concerned. Administrative provisions, such as valuation for duty, are awaiting ratification by the countries concerned.

The following countries negotiated the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at Geneva: Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Burma, Canada, Ceylon, Chile, China, Cuba, Czechoslovak Republic, the French Republic, India, Lebanon, Luxemburg, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Southern Rhodesia, Syria, Union of South Africa, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, United States of America. However, the Protocol of Provisional Application has only been signed to date by the following countries: Australia, Belgium-Netherlands-Luxemburg Customs Union ("Benelux"), Canada, Cuba, France (Metropolitan Territory), United Kingdom and the United States of America.

The Protocol will remain open for signature until June 30, 1948, on behalf of any other Government signatory to the Final Act adopted at the conclusion of the Second Session of the Preparatory Committee of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Employment. Under the terms of this agreement the signatories, including Canada and the United Kingdom, made a number of reductions in Preferential Tariff rates, and in some cases eliminations of preferential margins were negotiated. Moreover, the signatories are precluded from creating new preferences or increasing existing ones.

Although the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade resulted in some reductions and eliminations in the margins of tariff preference in the various Commonwealth and Empire countries, the essential structure of the Empire Preferential Tariff System still remains, since a large part of pre-war trade among Commonwealth and Empire countries was unaffected by tariff concessions made at Geneva.

The existing trade agreements between Canada and other Empire countries have not been abrogated and still remain in effect.

Export Drawback

In order that the sale of Canadian goods in the various countries of the world may not be handicapped by reason of payment of duties on materials imported into Canada, the Canadian Government allows a drawback of 99% of all duties and taxes paid on imported materials which are used or directly consumed in, wrought into, or attached to articles manufactured in Canada and subsequently exported.

UNITED KINGDOM OF GREAT BRITAIN AND NORTHERN IRELAND

Background of Empire Preferences in United Kingdom

As the United Kingdom is the most important preferential market for Canadian goods, it might be helpful to review briefly the adoption by the United Kingdom of the principle of Empire preferences.

The United Kingdom Finance Act of July 31, 1919, instituted Imperial preference within the scope of the limited tariff of that time. The entire tariff in 1919, however, comprised only about a score of articles. The tariff and consequent preferences expanded from year to year, but it was not until the Abnormal Importations (Customs Duties) Act of November 20, 1931, enacted for six months, giving extensive powers for taxing imports, that any considerable number of articles were subjected to import duty. Under this measure three orders were issued applying a tariff of 50 per cent ad valorem to many classes of foreign manufactures. Another emergency measure, passed on December 11, 1931, for one year, was authority for the issue of five orders imposing duties on foreign fruits, vegetables and flowers. Empire products were not taxed under either of these measures.

The Import Duties Act, assented to Feburary 29, 1932, imposed on all foreign goods not already taxed or named in a limited schedule of exemptions a rate of 10 per cent ad valorem. The Act created an Import Duties Advisory Committee with power to recommend increases in this rate with regard to particular goods. On reports from this Committee and Treasury Orders, rates have been increased to 15, 20, 25, 30, or 33⅓ per cent on many articles. Products of the British Dominions, India and other parts of the Empire were exempted from the provisions of the Import Duties Act until November 15, 1932, their tariff treatment after that date to depend on the results of the then pending Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

Trade Agreement of 1932

At the conclusion of the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa, on August 20, 1932, a trade agreement was signed between Canada and the United Kingdom. Among other things, the United Kingdom prolonged the exemption, during the life of the agreement, of Canadian goods from the Import Duties Act, and guaranteed specified margins of preference to Canada against foreign countries on seventeen items. Preferences established by similar agreements with other dominions are conceded automatically to Canada. Canada also enjoys the benefits of all tariff preferences existing in the Colonial Empire, with the exception of some local Rhodesian preferences. In return Canada increased the former preferences to the United Kingdom on 223 items.

As to Canadian concessions, it may be recalled that Canada, on April 23, 1897, had extended to United Kingdom goods a Reciprocal Tariff rate one-eighth lower than the General Tariff. The preference of one-quarter was incorporated in a purely British Preferential Tariff adopted by Canada, in 1898, when the Reciprocal Tariff was repealed. In 1900, the British preference was increased to one-third and was kept at practically one-third in the Tariff Act of 1907, which, with various amendments, is still in force.

From time to time the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff have been extended by Canada to other parts of the Empire and at present the British Preferential Tariff rates apply to imports from practically every part of the Empire.

Trade Agreement of 1937

On February 23, 1937, a new trade agreement with the United Kingdom was signed at Ottawa, to replace the 1932 agreement, and to remain in force subject to six months' notice of termination.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade Signed at Geneva, Switzerland

At the time of the signature of the Protocol of Provisional Application of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at Geneva in October 1947, there was an exchange of notes between Canada and the United Kingdom setting forth the basis on which trade between the two countries is regulated. Each country continues to extend to the other the preferences remaining after the entry into force of the General Agreement.

Imports into Canada from the United Kingdom of items in Part I of Schedule V to the General Agreement are to be admitted at rates not higher than those applicable under the British Preferential Tariff on 1st July, 1939, and in some cases at lower rates. Imports from the United Kingdom are accorded treatment not less favourable than that accorded to any country or customs territory with the exception of some special preferences accorded to the British West Indies, New Zealand, and South Africa.

Imports into the United Kingdom from Canada of items specified in Part I of Section A Schedule XIX of the General Agreement are (with few exceptions) not to be subject to rates of duty higher than those which applied on April 10, 1947, and all imports from Canada are to be accorded treatment not less favourable than that accorded to any other country or customs territory.

Preference Conditions including Empire Content

In order to qualify for preferential tariff treatment in the United Kingdom it must be shown to the satisfaction of the British Commissioners of Customs and Excise that goods have been (1) consigned from and (2) grown, produced, or manufactured in the British Empire. Goods regarded as "growth or produce" must have 100 per cent Empire content.

Manufactured tobacco and sugar are granted preference to the extent to which the raw material therein is shown to be Empire grown.

Optical goods and parts, including cameras, require an Empire content of 75 per cent of the factory or works cost.

An order, made effective April 1, 1933, prescribed an Empire content of 50 per cent of the factory or works cost for a selected list of manufactured goods including at that time, machinery, electrical goods, motor cars, metal furniture, various iron and steel products, rubber manufacturers, footwear, toys, toilet goods, and many other articles.

All other manufactured goods, not subject to the content requirements described above, including, for example, paper, textiles, foods, wood products, qualify for preference on an Empire content of 25 per cent of the factory or works cost. Parts or ingredients, dutiable under some measure other than the Import Duties Act, 1932, require separate certificate of origin from the actual producer of such parts or ingredients.

In regard to Empire content it may be pointed out that one of the provisions of the 1937 Trade Agreement states that neither Canada nor the United Kingdom will, without the consent of the other, increase the content requirement of any class of manufactured goods, for preference purposes, beyond 50 per cent.

In order for tariff preference to be given, it is necessary for the importer to establish that the goods were consigned from some part of the Empire to the United Kingdom and not to a foreign country from which they were subsequently reconsigned to the United Kingdom, but transshipment is allowed in a foreign port while the goods are en route to the United Kingdom.

Definition of Factory or Works Cost:

The value of manufactured goods for the purpose of determining the Empire content is defined as the cost to the manufacturer at the factory or works, and includes the value of containers and other forms of interior packing ordinarily sold with the article when it is sold retail. It does not include the manufacturer's or exporter's profit or their cost of exterior packing, carriage to the port, and other charges incidental to the export of the goods subsequent to their manufacture. Regulations issued July 27, 1933, state that the value of manufactured goods for determining Empire content shall not include any customs, excise, or other duty paid or payable in respect of materials received into the factory, when such duties are subsequently refunded on the exportation of the finished goods.

Value for Duty

Although most Canadian products enter the United Kingdom duty-free, the law governing customs valuation is important on account of its effect where ad valorem duties are levied on competing goods.

Where ad valorem duties are involved the general rule of the British Customs is that the value for duty purposes is the invoice cost (selling price) plus all carrying charges to the port of importation in the United Kingdom plus landing and port charges, but excluding customs duties and other customs import charges.

To be more specific, ad valorem rates of duty are levied on the price which the goods would fetch on a sale in the open market at the time of importation, and duty must be paid on this value as fixed by the Commissioner of Customs. "Open market value" thus established is invariably in excess of the actual c.i.f. invoice price, and, in the case of manufactured goods sold through United Kingdom agents, is usually taken to be the agent's resale price less certain allowable deductions for merchanting expenses, which are normally in the neighborhood of 10%.

IRISH FREE STATE (EIRE)

Tariff Preferences Extended to Irish Free State

The Irish Free State has always extended to Canada all the existing tariff preferences provided for under the tariff of that country.

At the Imperial Economic Conference an agreement was entered into between the Irish Free State and Canada in 1932 which provides that goods, the produce or manufacture of Canada, imported into the Irish Free State, shall not be subject to other or higher duties than those paid on similar goods the produce or manufacture of any other country.

The Irish Free State has enjoyed, and continues to enjoy, the benefits of the British Preferential Tariff in respect of goods imported from the Irish Free State into Canada.

Preference Conditions — Empire Content

The preferential rates of duty in the Irish Free State are granted on condition that goods have been consigned from, and grown, produced or manufactured in a country forming part of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Generally speaking, the minimum Empire content to entitle goods to preferential treatment is 25 per cent,—that is to say that not less than one-quarter of the factory or works cost of the article would have to be represented by Commonwealth material and/or labour; also, as in the case of importations into the United Kingdom, proof of direct shipment is required.

Special preferential rates on certain specific items which had been extended to the United Kingdom in 1938 apply to imports of such goods from Canada by virtue of the provisions of the trade agreement between Canada and Eire, provided the Canadian manufacturer can certify that the Canadian content (as distinguished from Commonwealth content) is not less than the percentage prescribed.

Value for Duty

Briefly stated, ad valorem duty is levied in the Irish Free State on the invoice cost (selling price) plus all carrying charges to the port of importation in that country.

AUSTRALIA

Trade Agreement of 1931

The first preferences obtained for Canadian goods in Australia arose out of a limited exchange of preferences effected by concurrent legislation in both countries, brought into force on October 1, 1925. This arrangement was superseded by a formal trade agreement, very comprehensive in scope, which became effective August 3, 1931.

Under Article I of the agreement, Canada concedes to Australia reductions in duty on various items, and on other goods grants the British Preferential Tariff.

Under Article II there is established a list of goods under which Canada is given the British Preferential, Intermediate, or other special tariff rates, and General Tariff rates of Australia. As respects any goods not classifiable under this listing, Australia extends to Canada the benefit of its British Preferential Tariff.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

Generally speaking, the minimum content prescribed by Australia for its British Preferential Tariff purposes is 75 per cent Canadian or Australian labour and/or material,—that is to say that not less than three-quarters of the factory or works cost of each article in its finished state is to be represented by Canadian or Australian labour and/or material.

There are certain categories of goods under which the content requirement is only 25 per cent and 50 per cent, the 25 per cent being the longer list, and these are, generally speaking, goods which have been deemed to be of a class or kind not manufactured in Australia.

Value for Duty

The value for both Customs and Primage Duty on imports into Australia from Canada is, generally speaking, the home market value in Canada, or the actual money price paid for the goods by the Australian importer, plus transportation charges to the nearest border point from the place of production even if the goods leave Canada by a Canadian Atlantic or Pacific port. The Australian Customs authorities have issued a long list of places on or near the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River which they deem to be ports of exit for calculation of Australian Customs duty.

On non-British goods the value for both Customs and Primage Duty purposes in Australia is the home market value in the non-British country, or the actual money price paid for the goods by the Australian importer, plus transportation charges to the place where the goods leave that country.

The following changes were made in the Australian valuation for duty provision, effective November 15, 1947,—

(1) The former statutory addition of 10% for both Empire and non-Empire goods has been eliminated.

(2) The value for duty is calculated on the basis of the par value of Australian currency instead of British sterling as was formerly the case.

NEW ZEALAND

Trade Agreement of 1932

New Zealand since 1903 has extended to Canada the benefit of Preferential rates of duty brought into force under successive tariff laws. In return Canada granted New Zealand British Preferential Tariff treatment.

Trade between Canada and New Zealand is now governed by formal trade agreement between the two countries which went into force May 24, 1932.

Articles I and II provided reciprocal exchange of British Preferential tariffs for goods not specified for other tariff treatment.

Canada concedes rates lower than its British Preferential Tariff on various articles of outstanding interest to New Zealand, and otherwise extends to her the British Preferential Tariff. In return, New Zealand grants her British Preferential Tariff rates to Canada with certain exceptions. Even in the case of those exceptions, the rates given to Canada are lower than the General Tariff rates.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

Generally speaking the minimum content prescribed by the New Zealand Customs for British Preferential Tariff purposes is 50 per cent,—that is to say that not less than one-half of the factory or works cost of each article in its finished state is to be represented by Canadian or other Empire labour and/or material.

In the case of Canadian motor vehicles, these are accorded British Preferential Tariff rates when having at least 75 per cent Canadian content, and Intermediate Tariff rates when having 50 per cent to 75 per cent Canadian content.

Value for Duty

Value for duty in New Zealand may be briefly stated as the fair market value in the country of export increased by 10 per cent.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA

Canadian-South African Trade Agreement of 1932

Although Canada and South Africa have granted tariff preferences to each other since 1904, the first formal trade agreement between Canada and the Union of South Africa was signed at Ottawa on August 20, 1932.

Under Schedule A of this agreement there are 46 items on which Canada agrees to apply to South African goods either free entry, specified rates (some seasonal), or British Preferential rates. There is a guarantee on scheduled goods of lowest rates (excluding concessions to the British West Indies) and maintenance of margins of existing preference against foreign goods.

In regard to South African concessions to Canada, Canada retains all former margins of preference and is granted preferences on a number of additional commodities.

It should be emphasized that in the case of the Union of South Africa not every item in the Tariff carries a preferential or minimum rate of duty, but, to a large extent Canada secures the Minimum Tariff rates where same are in force. There are some items on which the United Kingdom gets the Minimum Tariff and Canada does not. As a general rule goods of non-British origin entering the Union of South Africa are subject to the Intermediate Tariff rates which are also given to Canada where Minimum rates do not apply.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

According to the wording of the Union of South Africa Customs Act, that country requires a minimum 25 per cent Canadian content for tariff preference purposes,—that is to say that not less than one-quarter of the factory or works cost of each article is to be represented by Canadian labour and/or material.

Value for Duty

Generally speaking, the value of goods for purposes of ad valorem duty in the Union of South Africa is the domestic value, as defined below, in the country of export, provided that in no case shall the value for purposes of duty be less than the free-on-board cost of the goods to the importer including any agent's or buying commission in excess of 5% with a further proviso that any abnormal costs additional to the export price incurred by the importer as a result of a state of war, strikes, lock-outs, riots or civil commotions, are not to be regarded as forming part of the free-on-board cost of the goods to the importer.

In the South African Customs Act, domestic value is defined in general as follows:

> "The market price at which, at the time of exportation to the Union, such or similar goods are freely offered for sale, for consumption in the territory from which such exportation takes place, in the usual wholesale quantities in the ordinary course of trade to all purchasers in the principal markets of that territory, including the cost of packages ordinarily used in those markets, plus the extra cost of packing and packages for export, carriage to the port of shipment or other place of final despatch in that territory, and all other expenses incidental to placing the goods on board ship or vehicle at that port or place, ready for export to the Union, but shall not include excise duties or sales taxes imposed by the government of that country."

BASUTOLAND, BECHUANALAND, SWAZILAND, SOUTH-WEST AFRICA AND WALVIS BAY

The tariff situation in the above-mentioned countries is the same as the Union of South Africa.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA

Canada-Southern Rhodesia Trade Agreement of 1932

A formal trade agreement between Canada and Southern Rhodesia was signed at Ottawa on August 20, 1932, but was terminated on January 2, 1938.

Southern Rhodesia, however, accords Canada and the United Kingdom the same preferences over foreign countries on slightly over half of the 331 items constituting the tariff. On one-quarter of the items, the United Kingdom is granted lower rates than Canada, but on nearly the whole schedule of duties Canada has a lower rate than applies to foreign countries.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

In order for tariff preference to be granted in Southern Rhodesia, a 25 per cent Empire content is required,—that is to say that not less than one-quarter of the factory or works cost of each article in its finished state is to be represented by Canadian or other Empire labour and/or material.

Value for Duty

Generally speaking, the value for duty in the case of goods imported into Southern Rhodesia is the domestic value as defined below plus the extra cost of packing and packages for export and the carriage to port of shipment, provided that in no case shall the value for duty be less than the free-on-board price of goods to the importer, including agents or buying commission in excess of 5 per cent.

'Domestic value' is defined as the market price at which at the time of exportation such or similar goods are offered for sale, for comsumption in the country from which the goods are exported, to all purchasers in wholesale quantities in the ordinary course of trade in the principal markets of such country, including the cost of packages ordinarily used in those markets, but less any drawback or remission of duty granted by the Government of the exporting country on exportation.

NORTHERN RHODESIA

Northern Rhodesia has two Customs zones. The area known as the Congo Basin zone is part of territory for which an "open door" policy (that is equality of trade for all nations) was established by the Berlin Act of 1885. In this portion of Northern Rhodesia, therefore, non-British goods enter at the same rate of duty as British and other Empire goods.

The Zone known as the Zambesi Basin has in force a Preferential Tariff, which is accorded to Canada, the United Kingdom and other British countries. Canadian goods having the prescribed content requirement enter under the Preferential Tariff of Northern Rhodesia. Non-British goods are subject to the General Tariff rates.

The Preferential Tariff rates of the Zambesi Basin constitute the Customs Tariff of the Congo Basin, and are applicable to all countries.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

As in the case of the United Kingdom, there is a long list of goods for which a minimum Empire content of 50 per cent is prescribed in order for goods to receive tariff preference on importation into the Zambesi Basin of Northern Rhodesia. Generally speaking, any goods not covered by any heading in this list only require 25 per cent Empire content. However, optical goods and parts, including cameras, require a 75 per cent Empire content.

As there are no tariff preferences in the Congo Basin of Northern Rhodesia, there is no minimum content requirement.

Value for Duty

Similar conditions exist as regards value for duty in Northern Rhodesia as in the case of the Union of South Africa, given above.

INDIA AND PAKISTAN

There are no tariff preferences for Canadian goods entering India or Pakistan. Both Canadian and non-British goods are subject to the same tariff rates.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

Since there is no preference in India or Pakistan for Canadian goods, minimum Empire content does not come into the picture.

Value for Duty

Generally speaking, the value for levying ad valorem duty on goods imported into India and Pakistan is the value shown on the invoice, provided that it is the ordinary landed cost of goods of like kind and quality, that there is no special relationship between seller and buyer, and that the price is unconditionally bound to any buyer. Frequently percentages are added to invoice values to cover landing and similar incidental charges. There are, however, for Indian Customs purposes, fixed valuations for certain commodities subject to ad valorem duty.

NEWFOUNDLAND

There are no customs tariff preferences for Canadian goods entering Newfoundland over non-British goods.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

Although there are no preferential tariff rates accorded Canadian goods entering Newfoundland there is a certificate of origin clause in the invoice form prescribed by Newfoundland and Canadian exporters have to state the percentage of Canadian content, the minimum requirement of which is 25 per cent. This certificate of origin is required to be completed for Canadian goods claiming entry under the Intermediate Tariff.

Value for Duty

Ad valorem duty is levied on the current domestic value of the goods in the principal markets of the country whence and at the time when the goods were exported directly to Newfoundland, but such value shall not include any excise or internal revenue duty payable on such goods in the country from which they were exported.

BRITISH WEST INDIES

Trade Agreement between Canada and the British West Indies

The present trade relations between Canada and the British West Indies are governed by the trade agreement of July 6, 1925, which was brought formally into force by proclamation as from April 30, 1927.

List of Countries Comprising the British West Indies

As a general rule there are tariff preferences for Canadian goods over non-British goods entering the various colonies comprising the British West Indies. The following are the countries included under the heading of the British West Indies: Bahamas; Barbados; Bermuda; British Guiana; British Honduras; Jamaica; Cayman Islands*; Turks and Caicos Islands; Leeward Islands—Antigua, Dominica, Montserrat, St. Christopher-Nevis, Virgin Islands; Trinidad and Tobago; Windward Islands—Grenada, St. Lucia, St. Vincent.

Note: As respects the Cayman Islands there are not as many preferences as in the case of the other British West Indies colonies.*

Duty-Free Lists

The tariffs of the British West Indies colonies have duty-free lists, usually including goods for Colonial Governments, military or naval purposes, municipalities, churches, educational institutions, hospitals or certain organizations of a public nature. These duty-free lists apply to all countries, and while the provisions are not the same in all the colonies the general effect is about as indicated. Although these duty-free lists are mentioned, it should be borne in mind that the rates of duty in both the British Preferential and General Tariffs apply in the case of merchandise imported in the usual way for commercial purposes. Some articles, of course, are duty-free no matter for what purpose they are imported.

Preference Conditions—Content Requirement

Goods qualify for preferential tariff treatment in the British West Indies colonies, including Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, when grown, produced, or manufactured, within the areas entitled to preference and consigned therefrom to the colonies.

In the case of Bermuda, Cayman Islands and the Turks and Caicos Islands, the minimum content requirement for tariff preference purposes is 25 per cent,—that is to say, not less than one-quarter of the factory or works cost of each article in its finished state must be represented by Canadian or other Empire labour and/or material.

In the case of the other colonies, however, there is an extensive list of goods (as in the case of the United Kingdom) for which the Empire content requirement is 50 per cent.

However, in order for optical glass, optical instruments and their component parts to be granted tariff preference in all the colonies of the British West Indies with the exception of Bermuda, Cayman

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

Islands and the Turks and Caicos Islands, there is required a minimum Canadian or other Empire content of 75 per cent.

Value for Duty

In Bahamas, British Guiana, British Honduras, Cayman Islands, Dominica, Grenada, Jamaica, Montserrat, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and Trinidad and Tobago, the value for duty of imported goods is the selling price to the West Indies importer, plus transportation costs to the destination, i.e., c.i.f. port of entry.

In Antigua, Barbados, Bermuda, St. Christopher-Nevis, Turks and Caicos, and Virgin Islands, the value for duty purposes is held to be the selling price of the goods to the West Indies importer, f.o.b. factory in the country of export.

OTHER COUNTRIES IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE

In various other colonial territories and protectorates there are tariff preferences, and in order to secure the benefit of same the conditions prescribed for tariff preference in each colony would have to be observed. In a number of these countries, as in the case of Great Britain, there is a long list of goods for which a 50 per cent Empire content is required before tariff preference is accorded, and other goods are, generally speaking, subject to only a 25 per cent Empire content requirement. In some colonies, however, the content requirement is only 25 per cent for all goods.

There is given below a list of the British Colonies and Protectorates which grant preference to Canadian goods. In some of these countries there are preferences on practically all goods, in others a great number of items enjoy tariff preferences, and in the case of the Falkland Islands, Gibraltar, Hong Kong and the Colony of Singapore, there are preferences on only a few articles.

British Somaliland
British Solomon Islands
Brunei
Ceylon
Channel Islands
Cook Islands

EXPORT TRADE SERVICES AND POLICY OF THE CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

Practical Assistance to Exporters

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, with its expert Service Departments, is in a particularly strong position to assist its members in developing Export Trade.

More than 2,200 firms in the membership of the Association are interested in export. Many hundreds of the Association's members are importers of materials and equipment to a lesser or greater degree. This helps to pay for exports. The Association assists members with their import problems.

Service Departments

Established over 77 years ago, the Association's growth has paralleled that of manufacturing industry and export trade in Canada and it has built up Service Departments with a background of experience and information extending over many years. Indeed, export trade is specifically mentioned as a prime object of the Association in its Constitution, which provides that "The objects of this Association shall be to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters, and to render such services and assistance to the members of the Association and to manufacturers and exporters generally, as the Association may deem advisable from time to time".

There are many complications connected with doing export business. Questions concerning the transportation of goods overseas, the tariffs and other trading restrictions of importing countries, marine insurance, trade practices, trade statistics, credit information, translations, invoicing requirements and a multitude of other incidentals constantly arise.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, through its Tariff, Transportation, Legislation, Industrial Relations, Commercial Intelligence, Insurance and Publishing Departments can be of great help in solving these problems. These Departments are managed by experts, who have had long experience in their respective fields and who, with their assistants, are able to render a comprehensive service to members, covering all phases of export business.

The Commercial Intelligence Department is the Department having particular charge of export trade matters. It operates under a Commercial Intelligence Committee composed of representatives of different industries across Canada who are engaged in export trade. Under the guidance of the Commercial Intelligence Committee, the Association advocates and presses the adoption of those policies which will further the export business of its members.

The London, England, office of the Association, i.e., The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain Inc., handles a variety of matters relating to Anglo-Canadian trade.

The Canadian Trade Index

The Association performs a particularly valuable service in the interests of Canadian export trade by compiling and publishing annually "The Canadian Trade Index", a volume of over 1000 pages, containing a complete list of all Canadian manufacturers with a carefully classified list of their products, together with much other useful information with respect to all phases of export trade. With the co-operation of the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa, copies of "The Canadian Trade Index" are distributed to hundreds of importers in overseas countries through the offices of the Canadian Government Trade Commissioners.

Meetings and Conferences

The Association holds frequent meetings, large and small, to hear addresses on export trade, to entertain visitors from overseas, to discuss export problems and kindred matters and generally to promote the interests of Canadian exporters. At Annual General Meetings, largely attended Conferences on Export and International Trade are organized.

Canadian Export Trade Series

The Export Study Clubs, organized under the auspices of the Commercial Intelligence Committee of the Association, are studying various phases of problems connected with export trade. Basic data has been and is being prepared by members of the groups; these are being published in pamphlet form as the Canadian Export Trade Series and are issued to interested members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The pamphlets in this Series only include such information as members of the group thought would be essential in a first approach to the subject. No attempt has been made to suggest future trends or developments.

SEE INDEX OF SUBJECTS, PAGE 228

The following pamphlets have been issued in the Canadian Export Trade Series:

No. 1. United Kingdom
No. 2. Transportation Features of an Export Shipment
No. 3. Union of South Africa

No. 6. British Empire Preferential Tariff System
No. 7. Mexico
No. 8. Export Merchandising
No. 9. Australia
No. 10. Terms of Payment and Export Credits
No. 11. Marine Insurance

Policy on Export Trade

In connection with export and international trade a continuing study has been made of controls of materials, and the international currency situation. The Association maintains close co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce, the Department of Finance, the Department of Reconstruction and Supply, the Department of External Affairs, the Foreign Exchange Control Board and is in close touch with the Federation of British Industries, the National Association of Manufacturers in the United States, and the International Chamber of Commerce.

The Association stands for and advocates the greatest possible trade between nations. It is obvious that the number of people employed in Canada depends to a great extent on the volume of her export trade.

The Association believes that the extent of Canada's export trade depends to a great degree, upon the ingenuity and hard work of the many thousands of Canadian firms and individuals engaged in the export of foodstuffs, raw materials, manufactured goods, and services. Exporters must have all possible knowledge of the trade practices and requirements covering export shipments and it is for this reason that the Association has paid so much attention to its specialized departmental services which were begun so many years ago, and which have continuously expanded to keep abreast of the times.

In the increasingly complex modern world, however, government policy plays a growing part. Canadian Governments have always displayed a keen interest in the problems of exporters, and, wherever and whenever necessary, the Association has placed the views of exporters before the Government. In passing, it might be mentioned that commencing in 1901 the Association has made strong representations to the Government to establish and expand a Canadian Trade Commissioner Service. Down through the years the Association has co-operated particularly closely with the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Trade Commissioner Service.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has a history dating back over 77 years. It was formed in 1871 and was incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1902. Its objects, as defined in the Constitution and By-Laws, are "to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters, and to render such services and assistance to the members of the Association and to manufacturers generally as the Association shall deem advisable from time to time."

Membership

The Association has a membership of 6,120 (as of December, 1947). The industries it represents are located in 526 centres throughout Canada and 25% of the membership is to be found west of the Great Lakes. 83% of the membership of the Association consists of industries with less than 100 employees. As each industry in the membership has but one vote, irrespective of its size, actual control of the Association thus rests with the large body of smaller industries in Canada.

Offices

The Association has its head office in Toronto, but to better serve its members it maintains offices in Montreal, Quebec City, Amherst, Ottawa, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria. Each is in charge of an experienced manager, long in the service of the Association, with a competent staff.

Divisions and Branches

In order to deal with matters of provincial and local interest to its members, the Association operates five divisions and 23 branches. The Maritime Division has its headquarters in Amherst, N.S.; the Quebec Division in Montreal; the Ontario Division in Toronto; the Prairie Division in Winnipeg and the B.C. Division in Vancouver. There are Provincial branches in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta and local branches in Brandon, Man.; Calgary, Alta.; Drummondville, Que.; Edmonton, Alta.; Granby, Que.; Granville Island, B.C.; Hamilton-Brantford, Ont.; Lethbridge, Alta.; Medicine Hat, Alta.; Montreal, Que.; Moose Jaw, Sask.; Fort Erie, Ont.; Niagara Falls, Ont.; Ottawa Valley, Ont.; Peterborough, Ont.; Prince Albert, Sask.; Quebec City, Que.; Regina, Sask.; St. Johns, Que.; Saskatoon, Sask.; Shawinigan Falls, Que.; Sherbrooke, Que.; Toronto, Ont., and Victoria and Vancouver Island, B.C.

Democratic Organization

The Association is organized on democratic lines, paralleling to a certain extent the governmental organization of the Dominion of Canada. The Annual General Meeting represents the electorate as a whole. The Executive Council elected annually by the Annual General Meeting is the Association's Parliament, meeting at intervals during the year to transact necessary business. The Executive Committee is the Cabinet, which reports to and is responsible to the Council. The Divisions parallel the Provinces and their Executive Committees resemble the Provincial Legislatures. The Branches are the municipalities, with their Executive Committees like municipal councils.

Service Departments

The Association prides itself on the expert services it provides for its members through its Division and Branch offices and through its Service Departments at Head Office. These Departments are the Tariff, Transportation, Legal, Industrial Relations, Commercial Intelligence, Insurance, Trade Sections and Publishing. Each is in charge of a well qualified manager, with a staff of trained assistants.

Committees

The work of the Departments is directed by Standing Committees, who are elected annually by the Annual General Meeting and who report during the year to the Executive Council. These Committees are composed of members of the Association who are qualified by their work and experience to deal with those subjects coming up for consideration in each of the Committees. For example, the Transportation Committee is composed for the most part of the traffic managers of Canadian industries.

The work of the Divisions and Branches is directed by Executive Committees, with the assistance of other committees dealing with particular subjects. These are elected at annual meetings.

Approximately 1,000 members of the Association serve on the Executive Council, the Standing Committees and the Division and Branch Committees.

TRADE STATISTICS

Foreign trade of Canada in 1947 was the highest for any year in history, totalling $5,385,700,000. This figure was 26 per cent ahead of the 1946 total and was nearly 3 per cent higher than the previous record year of 1944. Total export trade in 1947 represented an increase of 20 per cent over 1946 and was the highest for any peacetime year at $2,774,900,000 which was three and a third times the total for pre-war 1938. Merchandise imports were one-third higher than the previous peak figure for 1946, and at $2,573,900,000 were close to four times the 1935-39 average.

The following tables set forth in summary the figures for commodity trade by areas and by general commodity groups, showing the 1946 and 1938 figures for purposes of comparison.

Canada ended the year 1947 with an over-all favourable commodity trade balance with all countries of $237,800,000 as compared with $411,900,000 in the preceding year. Debit balance with the United States was $918,100,000 while the favourable balance with the United Kingdom was $564,300,000.

THE list beginning on the opposite page comprises the names and addresses, alphabetically arranged, of all firms appearing in the classified section of the Canadian Trade Index. In this list we have tried to give the users of the book some information that will be useful in getting into quick touch with the makers of any desired article.

No street addresses are given in Part III (the classified article section). These are recorded where necessary to complete the address in Part II (the alphabetical list).

We have not attempted to give, in this list, any full account of the products. These will all be found under separate headings in the classified section on pages 475 and following. Where the firm or company name does not indicate clearly the line of goods manufactured, some of the main articles produced, or the nature of the firm's business, are mentioned.

The address given is that of the main place of business in Canada, usually the head office, although it may be both factory and office address. The addresses given later, under "Factories," "Mills," or "Plants" are generally those of branch factories. Branch offices also are given.

For. Rep. or simply Rep. means foreign or other representative for export sales purposes.

The Cable addresses and codes will be found useful in initiating and transacting export business.

Names of new firms received too late for listing in the main body of the blue section will be found under "Additions" at the end of this section.
